

ALL EUROPE WAITING FALL OF THE TURKISH CAPITAL

PLACING CROSS ON ST. SOFIA AGAIN MAY PRECIPITATE GENERAL CONFLICT.

BALKAN STATES FIRM

Will Make Their Own Terms With Defeated Foe But May Permit Powers to Decide Fate of Constantinople.

Paris, Nov. 9.—The European situation is considered in official circles here to be precarious.

The French cabinet met today at the palace of the Elysee with President Fallieres. Premier Poincaré read to his colleagues the latest dispatches received from the French ambassadors at St. Petersburg, Vienna and other capitals which led to a discussion lasting several hours.

Serious Outbreaks. Serious disorders are reported to have broken out in Constantinople where Kurds soldiers are said to be killing Christians in the Galata quarter, according to a special dispatch from Bucharest, Roumania, published by the Paris Midi under reserve.

Some buildings of the Turkish capital are said to have been set on fire. The banks and foreign embassies are guarded by detachments of Turkish troops who are still obedient to discipline.

Expect Terms. Despite the critical nature of the Austro-Serbian difference in regard to the Balkans it is believed in official circles in St. Petersburg, according to a dispatch to the La Liberté, that Austria and Serbia will reach an accord without jeopardizing the peace of Europe.

It is thought that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria and the Russian government are likely to bring influence to bear on Serbia to restrain her territorial demands.

Awaits Death. "My sovereign will await death in his palace and in my office." With this statement, Kiamil Pasha, the Turkish grand vizier, grimly awaits the inevitable at Constantinople, according to the correspondents in that city of the Nation.

Noradunghian Pasha, the Turkish minister of foreign affairs, according to another newspaper dispatch, is directing the affairs of his office with a singular tenacity and devotion to the cause of the Ottoman government, despite his 35 years.

For eleven days he has not gone out of his office. He eats there and sleeps there, what little he sleeps. And there he stoically awaits the coming of the Balkan allies, intoxicated by many victories and resolved to drive the Turks from Europe or lay down their lives before the gates of Constantinople.

Reports on Capture. Sofia, Nov. 9.—A local newspaper reports the capture by Bulgarians of the Turkish port of Kavala on the Aegean sea and the city of Gümüshane, 75 miles southwest of Adrianople. The Turkish garrison of Kavala, finding their escape cut off, surrendered.

Premier Guechoff of Bulgaria says there is no truth in the report cabled abroad that the Turkish government has proposed to Bulgaria to begin peace negotiations without the mediation of the powers.

Many Prisoners. Athens, Nov. 9.—The capitulation of the Turkish fortress of Saloniki as well as Fort Karaburun, was signed last night according to an official dispatch received by King George of Greece. 25,000 Turkish troops surrendered.

Fate of Constantinople. Belgrade, Nov. 9.—The fate of Constantinople and the Dardanelles, said the premier would be left to the decision of the European powers, as to the Saloniki the Balkan allies had not yet reached an agreement as to who was to have it.

Are Alarmed. New York, Nov. 9.—Alarmed by reports of the massacre of Christians in Turkey, Cleveland H. Dodge, president of the board of trustees of Robert College, Constantinople, cabled to the college today for full information as to the fate of missionaries and teachers in the beleaguered city. Mr. Dodge today received a cablegram from C. S. Gates, president of Robert College, saying there were "many wounded," but giving no details. Mr. Dodge cabled that the Red Cross was raising funds in this country to be sent to Turkey.

Capture Forts. Sofia, Nov. 9.—The Bulgarian army, besieging Adrianople today, captured Kartalpete and Papazpete, two of the outer line of forts defending the city, after a desperate artillery duel. The Bulgarian troops suffered a large number of casualties.

Claim Victory. Constantinople, Nov. 9.—The Turkish garrison of Adrianople claims to have inflicted a severe defeat on the Bulgarians in a two-days' battle on the western frontier in the vicinity of Karas.

Hard Fighting. Vienna, Nov. 9.—The Bulgarians are now attacking with their full strength the remaining Turkish position about Tachatalja and the fall of this vital Turkish defense in front of Constantinople is only a matter of hours, according to today's dispatches from the Reichspost correspondent.

The Third Army. The Bulgarian third army has penetrated far into the forest region south of Derkas Lake preparatory to the advance on Constantinople, while the first army is engaged against the main Turkish position east of Tachatalja. This position is not yet completely pierced, but the end of the Turkish resistance appears to be in sight.

BIGGEST BATTLESHIP TO BE BUILT FOR THE ENGLISH NAVY

New Vessel Ordered to be Ready for Launching Five Months After Laying of Keel Plates.

London, Nov. 9.—All battleship buildings records are to be beaten by the British navy if the plans of construction of the latest British dreadnought are carried out.

The new vessel is ordered to be ready for launching five months after the laying of the first keel plates. Somewhat of a sensation was caused at Portsmouth when it was officially announced immediately after the launching of the Iron Duke that the keel plates of the super-dreadnought which is to follow were to be laid next Monday. In recent years it has been the practice to allow two or three months to intervene between the launching of a new ship and the laying down of another.

It is said that promises have been made to the Admiralty that the new ship will be ready for launching within the five months and side will be ready for service within one year, thus beating the record of the original dreadnought by two months.

It is also claimed that the new ship will be as great a departure from prevailing types as the dreadnought was from its predecessors. Provisions for oil fuel will be made in the new vessel and she will be armored to resist air attacks.

The United States will probably possess the oldest painting on canvas in the world in a short time. The picture which was discovered by Robert de Rustafjaell of Luxor, Egypt, is about 3,500 years old and is executed in wonderfully bright colors on well-preserved cloth. It belongs to the period when art in Egypt had reached its zenith and the figures in it are not nearly so stiff as the usual rock paintings ornamenting the interior of Egyptian tombs.

Rustafjaell is associated with an English company engaged in agriculture in Upper Egypt and all of his spare time is devoted to archaeology. Besides the painting, he has uncovered some valuable papyri and the largest collection ever made of Egyptian flint instruments.

Before he left Luxor with the painting, an American traveler offered the finder a large sum for the work, but at that time he was determined to keep it for his own collection and refused to part with it. Since his return, however, the offers have been raised to such a figure that he has consented to negotiate for its sale. Rustafjaell declares that the most tempting offers have been made by the London agents of American collectors, and he feels sure that the painting will be sent across the Atlantic.

The suffragets are pursuing constitutional as well as militant methods of gaining their ends. They are about to present a petition to the House of Commons requesting Parliament to enfranchise the women of Great Britain. This is signed by the representatives of the leading women's organizations of Australia.

They petition for this action on the ground of the success which has attended similar action in Australia and on the further ground that Australian women removing to England are humiliated by being disfranchised.

A mysterious American woman is sought by the English Probate Court in an effort to prove the death of an English banker, who after disappearing on the eve of his wedding day, is alleged to have died on board a yacht belonging to the American.

The court has been for the fourth time asked to presume the death of William Robertson Lidderdale, formerly manager of a bank in Ilminster. On January 8, 1892, Lidderdale, on the eve of his marriage to Miss Elizabeth Chapman, in whose favor he had made a will, left for London after drawing $5,000 from his private banking account. According to a letter received from him on the following day, Miss Chapman, on alighting at Paddington station he had met Miss Vining, an old love. Nothing more was heard of Lidderdale until February 10, 1892, when the following notice appeared in the obituary column of a London newspaper:

"Lidderdale—On January 30, on Miss B. A. H. Vining's yacht Foresight, William Robertson Lidderdale of Ilminster. The result of an accident on January 8, in alighting from a carriage in motion."

Subsequently Miss Chapman received a registered letter containing $2,500 in bank notes, some trinkets and some of Miss Vining's visiting cards. On one of the latter Lidderdale's handwriting was written: "Was true to you."

It has been suggested that Miss Vining never existed and until the present hearing no proof of this fact has been advanced. A director in Lidderdale's bank now comes forward with the statement that he knew Miss Vining, who was a strikingly beautiful woman about forty years of age. Her full name was Miss Beatrice Alice Hosiason Vining. She never married and was an American citizen. She evidently spent most of her time traveling on the yacht Foresight, which was never registered with Lloyd's, but which witnesses have described as having been anchored off Westgate in 1890.

The judge said he believed there was a Miss Vining and expressed the hope that through the numbers on the bank notes some trace of her or the missing man might be found in America.

The case has been adjourned in the hope that the identity of the woman of mystery and her equally mysterious yacht may be established.

UNABLE TO SECURE JOHNSON'S RELEASE

District Judge Carpenter Refuses to Interfere in Case and Black Pugilist Stays in Jail.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist who is being held by the federal government under an indictment charging him with violation of the Mann law, today occupies cell No. 200 in the county jail which he shares with a murderer, James Brown, a negro cook on a lake steamer.

Efforts to have the pugilist released on a writ of habeas corpus failed today and the endeavor of Johnson's attorneys to procure bail in the sum of $30,000 for his appearance in the federal court for trial has not yet been successful.

Meanwhile United States district Attorney James H. Wilkerson, questioned additional witnesses from whom it was expected further facts would be obtained relating to Johnson's relations with white women in so far as they pertained to alleged violations of the Mann law.

The petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in United States District Judge Carpenter's court early today, but was refused. Judge Carpenter declaring he would not interfere with the case.

Johnson's first night in the Cook county jail netted him 6 hours sleep. "You know I've been disturbed a whole lot in the last month or so," said the negro pugilist, before retiring after his efforts to obtain freedom had been frustrated by irregularities in bail bonds that were intended to hold him for trial on charges of violating the "white slave" law.

"You know I've been disturbed a whole lot," he repeated, "and I hope you won't let anybody disturb me. I'd just like a good old sound sleep."

Disorders among the white prisoners because Johnson was in their cell section, resulted in the removal of Johnson to the negro section.

ROSENTHAL GUNMEN MAY PLEAD GUILTY?

Attorneys, However, Deny Report That Their Clients Contemplate Any Such Move.

New York, Nov. 9.—The rumor persisted in and about the criminal courts building today that the four gunmen indicted for shooting Herman Rosenthal, desired to withdraw their pleas of not guilty and enter pleas to murder in the second degree. Their counsel denied, however, that any such move was contemplated and District Attorney Whitman would make no comment. The prisoners themselves, "Lefty Louis," "Whitey" Lewis, "Dago Frank" and "Gip-the-Blood," had nothing to say. There was no court session today.

AMERICAN PRISON CONGRESS IS CONVENED AT BALTIMORE.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 9.—Delegates, appointed by the governors of nearly all the states, among them many noted authorities on criminal law and penology, are in Baltimore for the annual congress of the American Prison Association, which opens tonight and continues in session through the greater part of next week.

The objects of the association are the improvement of the laws in relation to public offenses and offenders, and the mode of procedure by which such laws are enforced, the study of offenders and their social surroundings, and the best methods of dealing with offenders and of preventing crime, the improvement of penal, correctional and reformatory institutions, and the provision of suitable and remunerative employment for discharged prisoners. Mrs. Maud B. B. Booth, a leader in the movement for the care of discharged prisoners, will address the congress tomorrow afternoon.

ANNIVERSARY OF BIG FIRE COMMEMORATED BY TABLET.

Boston Mass., Nov. 9.—Today was the fortieth anniversary of the great Boston fire, and was commemorated by the event a tablet was unveiled this afternoon at the site where the great conflagration started, at Summer and Kingston streets. The fire raged two days and wiped out almost the whole of the business section of the city. Eight hundred buildings were destroyed and a dozen lives lost in the catastrophe. The property loss amounted to $70,000,000.

WEEK OF WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITIES

"Merchants' and Manufacturers' Week," Nov. 11 to 16, bids fair to surpass anything ever undertaken by the merchants of this city. Every retailer in the city is planning price reductions and sales that cannot but attract people for many miles.

Today's issue of this paper contains the announcement of many of these plans in their display advertisements. A careful reading of the advertising in this paper may mean the saving of many dollars in the purchase of winter supplies.

M'NAMIGAL WITNESS TODAY IN TRIAL OF THE LABOR LEADERS

Confessed Dynamiter Was to Take Stand Today in Government Trial of Alleged Dynamite Conspirators at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—Ortie McManigal, to whose confession as a dynamiter are attributed many of the circumstances which led to the imprisonment of the McNamara brothers in California and to the indictment in Indianapolis of 45 union labor leaders now being tried, was to take the stand as a witness for the government in the "dynamite trial" at about noon today.

Twice brought across the continent from Los Angeles, first to appear before the federal grand jury last winter and now to testify before the very men whom he accused of having put him in the dynamiting business, McManigal has occupied a unique place in criminal annals. The chief thought about him are he was arrested in Los Angeles county for blowing up the Llewellyn Iron Works, December, 1910 and now as a prisoner of California he is "loaned" to the federal authorities here.

He confessed to the Llewellyn explosion, for complicity in which John J. McNamara, secretary of the Iron Workers' Union was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment. He also confessed personally to causing twenty other explosions.

He asserted he was selected to do dynamiting because of his familiarity with explosives gained while working in a stone quarry. He charges his first explosion was done in Detroit in 1907 after he had been visited by Herbert S. Hocking. He says he received $250 and expenses for each "job" he "pulled off."

He has been carefully guarded since his arrest in Detroit, April 12, 1911, when in company with James B. McNamara, dynamiter of the Los Angeles Times building he was captured in a hotel while working his way through a crowd of theatrical people with a suit case filled with explosives.

He is about 40 years old, the son of James McManigal of Tiffin, Ohio. Throughout McManigal's confession which in condensed form covers more than two pages, are related incidents of intense interest. One of these relates to his arrival at his home in Chicago in the winter, to find that sticks of dynamite which he carried in a suit case had frozen. He put the dynamite on a radiator to thaw and went out to look over a job.

On returning home he found his girl baby on the floor playing with the dynamite. According to McManigal this conversation ensued: "McManigal: Do you know what that is?" "It's dangerous," baby. "Yes it's dynamite, but it won't hurt because I've played with it lots. I'm building a house with it."

McManigal kissed the baby and replaced the dynamite going out that night to blow a job.

The government has the suit case with the marks of the radiator on it. District Attorney Miller says the case was soaked with enough dynamite to have exploded if dropped on the sidewalk.

For the first time in public since his arrest 19 months ago, Ortie E. McManigal related at the trial of the 45 accused "bomb plotters" today his experiences as a hired dynamiter. The confessed accomplice of the McNamara brothers before noon testifying how for more than four years he caused explosions about the country against employers of non-union labor.

He directly accused Herbert S. Hocking, now secretary in the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers of inducing him under pay of the union.

ARRANGE CONFERENCE ON PANAMA QUESTION

President Taft, Secretary Knox and Ambassador Bryce Will Discuss England's Protest.

Washington, Nov. 9.—President Taft the secretary of state, and James Bryce, the British ambassador, probably will begin Monday a discussion of England's protest against the Panama canal bill. Mr. Bryce was a caller at the White House today, but the Panama matter was not discussed.

STEEL CORPORATION BREAKS UNFILED TONNAGE RECORD

New York, Nov. 9.—The unfiled tonnage of the United States steel corporation for the month ended October 31, was 7,594,381 tons. This breaks all monthly or quarterly records. The unfiled tonnage for the same month last year was 3,869,328 tons and for September of the present year it was 6,551,150 tons.

LOST DIAMONDS WORTH $22,000 IN BATH TUB

Los Angeles, Nov. 9.—Matt Levy, New York diamond salesman, told friends here today that gems of his valued at $22,000 had been lost through a drain in the bath yesterday. He carried them in a small chamois bag around his neck even when bathing. The bag broke and the string supporting it disappeared through the drain. An engineer soon recovered the diamonds for Levy, who presented him with a diamond pin.

DEED BIG TRACT OF LAND TO LA CROSSE

Six Hundred Acres of Land Given to City to be Used for Park Purposes.

La Crosse, Nov. 9.—Joseph M. Hixon, Ellen M. Hixon his mother and the Campbell Land Company, later being the same name under which the La Crosse Country Club owns its real estate, have presented for park purposes a tract of land consisting of 693 acres adjoining the city on the east. The tract contains the famous "Grand Dad" bluff and Miller's coule, and all the property of the golf club and represents a value of $100,000.

Under the terms of the gift the country club is to retain the right to use the golf links for a term of 35 years after which it is to be converted into public parks. The remainder of the land will at once be converted into park purposes. The entire tract of land is in the town of Campbell and will be annexed to the city. Frank P. Hixon, son of Mrs. Ellen Hixon recently donated $30,000 to the city for a manual training school. The two Hixon donations are the largest ever made to the city for public purposes.

BRILLIANT OPERA SEASON IN PROSPECT AT NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 9.—With every prospect of eclipsing all records for variety and brilliancy, New York's annual season of grand opera, which opens Monday night at the Metropolitan Opera House, the season will last twenty-three weeks, one week longer than usual. The chief feature of the season will be the opera in English by W. J. Henderson and Walter Damrosch. The opera bears the title "Cyrano" and is based on the famous play of Edmond Rostand. An afternoon cycle of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" will be given during the season, and there will also be several performances of "Parsifal."

FEDERATION OF LABOR CONVENTION TO OPEN.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Headquarters were opened here today for the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. President Samuel Gompers will call the gathering to order Monday morning and the sessions will probably continue a week or ten days. The convention is expected to be one of more than ordinary interest and importance to the world of organized labor. The reports and discussions will deal with the recent textile strike at Lowell and the long detention in jail of Etor and his companions.

JOHN TROWBRIDGE STARTS ON TRIP TO EUROPE.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—Appearing as youthful and vigorous as most men of half his years, John T. Trowbridge, the veteran story writer, sailed today for Italy, to spend the winter abroad. Mr. Trowbridge is eighty-five years old and is the last survivor of New England's famous group of authors and poets, which included Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Holmes and Lowell.

SAME OFFICIAL STAFF FOR NEXT LEGISLATURE

Madison, Nov. 9.—Present indications are that the next legislature will be reorganized with practically the same official staff as the last. There is apparently no opposition to the selection of Fred M. Wylie of Morrisville as chief of the senate.

Charles Leocoe, of New Lisbon will be selected sergeant of the senate to this plan. C. E. Shaffer, Madison, is slated for re-election as chief clerk of the assembly.

PRESIDENT VAN HISE DENIES HE EXPECTS A PORTFOLIO.

Madison, Nov. 9.—President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin does not expect to choose a member of his cabinet. Public reports had him stated for the portfolio of secretary of the interior.

"That is a mere surmise and suggestion by people who have no authority for speaking," he said today. "There is, of course nothing to it."

HEMMY INSINUATING FRAUD POSSIBILITY

DEMOCRATIC STATE CHAIRMAN WAITS OFFICIAL COUNT AT MADISON.

CHANGE THE FIGURES

McGovern Has Eight Thousand Plurality Over Karel—Count Still Slow in Coming in.

Madison, Nov. 9.—Democratic leaders may demand a recount of the state vote to determine the election of a governor. Chairman Paul Hemmy of the state central committee has now returned from his home in Juneau announcing that he will investigate the returns in every county and that if an error is discovered in one, a recount of all will be demanded.

"It seems strange to me that in towns where there are only 50 voters, returns of over 100 votes should be made," said Mr. Hemmy.

He intimated that the republicans colonized voting in the northern section of the state and allowed lumber jacks and other camp followers to vote illegally.

The headquarters of the various parties have been closed up and papers are no longer receiving and more returns are waiting for official returns from state canvassing board at Madison.

McGovern's Claim. Madison, Nov. 9.—McGovern estimates his majority today at 8,000. As fast as the county returns are received by the canvassing board, the vote on the governorship is submitted to him. He continued receiving callers today to the exclusion of other business and the preparation of his election statement promised last Thursday is further delayed.

State Chairman Scott and State Central Committeeman Morrissey of Delavan were callers today. Official returns today include Winnebago county: Karel 4,398, McGovern 5,490; Portage county: Karel 2,652, McGovern 2,356; Sawyer county: Karel 354, McGovern 485; Marinette: Karel 1,784, McGovern 2,612; Florence: Karel 146, McGovern 3,86.

SWEDISH RIFLE TEAM MAY VISIT AMERICA

Making Efforts to Organize Strongest Possible Combination Closely Rivalled Americans.

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 9.—The Swedish rifle clubs, in response to the American invitation to send a team of marksmen to the United States, are making efforts to organize the strongest possible combination of riflemen to participate in the tour.

Swedish riflemen proved the closest rivals of the Americans in the shooting contests at the Olympic games, where they were the Olympic champions, each other's calibre and Captain P. H. Heidenbald, president of the Swedish division of the International Rifle Union, is of the opinion that some keen contests may therefore be expected.

The construction of two more battleships is to be demanded from the Swedish Parliament by the Admiralty next year. The ships will be of the so-called F type, displacing 7,500 tons and making a speed of 22 knots. Each will carry in armored turrets, four 11-inch guns and a secondary armament of two 6-inch long distance quick-firing guns. It is expected that the new destroyers will be built and four submarines will be ordered.

All of the vessels will be built in Swedish shipyards. The splendid work of the Swedish officers engaged in the instruction of the military police in Persia has been called attention to by the publication of a report that they are to be recalled.

It was said that they were to be withdrawn because they could no longer be assured of their pay. This is denied here. Information that they here had had no information that their services would be dispensed with, and it is not thought likely that Russia and Great Britain would demand their return, for they are very efficient.

WILSON WAITS SUGGESTIONS AS TO HIS POLICIES

Princeton, Nov. 9.—Very useful and important indeed, was the comment which President-elect Wilson made today on the array of editorials, statements and declarations from prominent persons being published in various newspapers advocating or opposing an extra session of congress to revise the tariff.

"Are you going to take all these clippings with you on your vacation?" he was asked.

"Oh no," replied the governor. "I've read them already." The newspapers certainly are helping me in my listening policy. The attention of the president-elect was called to an argument in an editorial that inasmuch as he had not received a majority of the popular vote and that since both the republican and progressive parties favored a policy of protection, therefore the country had voted against tariff revision.

"That's queer reasoning," remarked the president-elect. "They overlook the fact that many state legislatures went democratic, which means democratic senators and likewise that there were a great number of democratic congressmen elected."

Mr. Wilson planned to attend the Princeton-New York university game here this afternoon.

Current For Electric Light On the Farm Costs Nothing.

This may seem like a pretty broad statement, but it is very easily explained. You don't have to run the engine for generating current alone—many people have work for the engine to do, while it is running the other machinery it can also operate the generator for a short time each day. In this way you are storing up current in your batteries for future use—making the engine furnish you current for lighting while doing other work, and your electric LIGHTS COST YOU ABSOLUTELY NOTHING.

ARKANSAS PLAYS AT MADISON SATURDAY

Varsity Team Held Last Practice for Contest With the "Razor-backs" Friday

Final scrimmage practice in preparation for the Arkansas Razorbacks followed by a day of signal practice only closed the week's work for the regulars. Following the game here today, which is the last of the year in Madison, the Badger team will journey first to meet the Gophers and then to Iowa City where the last game of the season will take place. The team was back in the game again Friday for the first time since the Chicago game, his place having been taken by Bellows. Many of the regulars are on the hospital list as a result of the big game and their places have been taken during the past week by the subs. From present indications it is thought that the same team which met Chicago last Saturday will line up against Minnesota with the exception that Van Riper may be back in the game.

The cast has been removed from Van Riper's leg and although it is still bandaged with a splint he is able to get about and hopes to play a short time at least. Coach Juncan feels that he has a mighty good man in reserve in the person of Gene Van Ghert who has filled Eddie Samp's place for a night or two. He returned to the game only a little over a week ago after recovering from a broken shoulder and in a very short time has worked himself into excellent trim. In scrimmage against the Freshmen he succeeded in making tackles all over the field and displayed remarkable speed in running down punts. He will probably be ready to go into any position during the rest of the week.

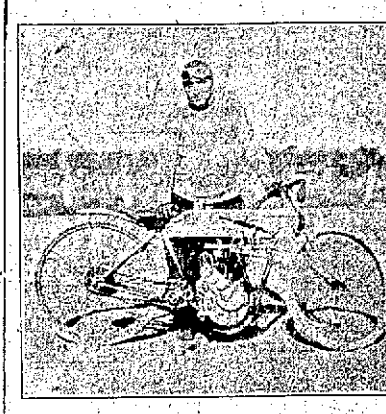

Minnesota formations were worked by the Freshmen against the varsity several times and although they were unable to gain much showed the regulars what to watch out for. The "ghost" ball has been in use all week. Although the coaches do not have any fear of the "unknowns" from Arkansas they are at present worrying about the Minnesota game which will be endangered by overconfidence on the part of the Wisconsin team according to the latest reports. The fact that Wisconsin's team stands head and shoulders above any team in the west it is feared will go to their heads and cause them to put up a much poorer fight with Minnesota than they are capable of. The Gopher men are going to be on the watch for just such a state of affairs and will take advantage of any opportunity offered them probably.

With all of the men back in the team and a determination to take the game Wisconsin should be able to win from the Northerners easily and it is hoped that their success so far will not affect their playing in the future in the least.

Dr. Hartman Invites Doctors to Visit His Office

In my last article I referred to the fact that many doctors have used Peruna and have offered to write me testimonials if I would pay them for their trouble.

The publication of these facts has caused some comment, especially some comment from correspondents. The doctors themselves especially emphasize the subject. I give an extract from a characteristic letter written by a doctor. He says:

Dear Doctor Hartman: I have read what you say about the regular physician using Peruna and their attitude toward written testimonials. I think you treat them generously by not condemning them for making such offers. I know from personal experience that most of the regular drug houses are willing to pay for that sort of work. I wish, however, you had given the names and addresses of the doctors you refer to in your article. Your statements would have been much more convincing if you had done so. You will excuse me if I express some doubt as to the good standing of the physicians that you refer to. Do you mean to say that which you quoted from in your last article? Will you let me see those letters if I should call at your office? I am the editor of a medical journal, and would be glad to take the matter up as a news item interesting to physicians.

My dear Doctor: I am glad you are interested in my article concerning the doctors and their attitude toward Peruna. I assure you that I have the letters that I quoted in the article and that you are perfectly welcome to examine them if you will call at my office. And at the same time I have many other letters quite as remarkable as those that you may examine. In fact, I will open to you my files which are so arranged that hundreds of thousands of letters covering the last twenty years, are available. You may spend as much time as you please in looking over the correspondence. To each letter I have appended a copy of the answer received. You being the editor of a medical journal, I should especially appreciate if you would spend some time in looking through my files. I am sure you will find the most remarkable letters you ever looked at. They tell the story of thousands of invalids who have been afflicted with some chronic catarrhal disease, and have found complete relief by taking Peruna. If I should publish them all they would make a library equal in volume to any law library in the city.

Come right along, Doctor. You shall not only see the two letters referred to in my former article, but I guarantee that you will see scores of others equally as interesting and valuable. Bring as many other doctors with you as you please.

PROPOSE LIBRARY BOOTH FOR INDUSTRIAL SHOW. Board Considers Matter at Regular Meeting Yesterday Afternoon—Continue Sunday Opening. At the regular meeting of the library board yesterday afternoon the proposition of having a booth for the library at the industrial exhibition at the auditorium was favorably considered. Nothing more effective could be devised by which to advertise the library was the general opinion and the details of a plan for a showing next week will doubtless be worked out. Among other things taken up by the board was the matter of Sunday

Danny Morgan, who wants a fight between his crack lightweight, Jack Britton, and Packey McFarland, has this to say about Packey's retirement.

"McFarland, who weighs 146 pounds, and who has been going around the country asking little lightweights to weigh in and insisting that himself, a big welterweight, be allowed to come in at catchweights, has at last been cornered by Jack Britton. McFarland, rather than fight him, has sent out word that he has retired, convincing the sporting public that he was afraid to meet a man of his class in cleverness.

"And by showing the white feather, he has escaped another beating at the hands of Britton, who as Packey remembers, gave him the lambasting of his life at Memphis over a year ago.

McFarland says he's weary of the ring and glad to leave it. A few other fighters in days gone by have also grown weary, and then after a time yearned for the padded mitts again. Some who might be mentioned are: Jim Corbett, Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Young Corbett, Jimmy Britt, Willie Fitzgerald and Harry Forbes. There always were plenty of Pattis of the ring. McFarland, however, may not be one of them.

Probably no member of the pitching profession ever achieved such a record of ups and downs as Russell Ford, of the New York Highlanders. In 1910 Russ led the American league with 29 victories against nine defeats. The next year, with his club in sixth place, he was near the top with 22 wins and half as many defeats—tying Joe Wood's mark. In 1912 he fell down completely, and while Wood led the league in wins with 34 victories, Ford led in defeats with 21 upsets.

Havana baseball fans are still talking about the wonderful pitching of Southpaw Cullip, of the New Orleans Pelicans. Everybody agrees down there that Cullip is the best pitcher they ever saw in action, and they've seen such stars as Christy Mathewson, Jack Coombs and George Mullin. Cullip had two, three and four-hit games to his credit down there and then outdid himself by holding the Cubans to no runs and no hits in 12 innings.

John P. Harris, who is connected with the Pittsburgh Pirates, is already predicting victory for the Smoky City team next year. He says the Giants had horseshoes all over them during the past season and that Fred Clarke's brigade will set the pace in 1913.

Yale is reported as being somewhat scared over the prospect of being defeated by Harvard in the annual game on Nov. 23. Princeton's style of play against Harvard last week was the same that Yale used last year, but has discarded this season for the more improved shift formations devised by ex-Captain Tom Shevlin. Yale plays Brown on Saturday of this week, and Princeton the next Saturday, and then Harvard. All the work done by Yale between now and Nov. 23 will be directed toward having the team in its top form on the latter date.

Seven St. Louis Cardinals who have been on long term contracts will have to be signed up again before next spring. That will give Mr. Miller Huggins, who is Roger Bresnahan's successor, a nice little job to start with.

Matty McIntyre, released by the Chicago White Sox for light hitting, lays claim to being the champion batter of the Pacific Coast league. Matty batted .382 in 41 games with the San Francisco Seals. Del Howard played 87 games and hit for a .362 average. Neither played enough games for a clean out claim to the batting title, and it's a question as yet who'll get the honor.

"Jack" Hegerty, captain of the Georgetown university football team, is out of the game for the rest of the season and in a hospital. In the North Carolina game, Hegerty sustained a broken ankle, in addition to a torn ligament in his leg. He is on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Dan McGugin, Vanderbilt University coach, declares that he this year has the fastest team he has ever seen. The Tennesseans are not a heavy bunch—rather light, in fact, with only a couple of big men in the lineup. The average weight of the team is 170 pounds.

Buck Crouse, the clever, Pittsburg middleweight, who defeated George K. O. Brown, the rough-going Chicago Greek, at Pittsburg recently, is out with a statement that he is open to meet any middleweight in the business. The Smoky City experts declare that Crouse is faster and better at present than ever before, and some of them appear to believe that he is able to beat any man in the 155-pound division.

Cleveland fight fans who had expected to see an interesting argument between Knockout Brown and Phil Brock, in their city Thursday night were quite disappointed that the bout had to be called off on account of the illness of Brown. It is not definitely known what will be done, but the opinion is general in the Sixth City that both the fighters and the promoters will be foolish if they don't carry out the original agreement with a postponement of a few weeks. The amount offered the boys is a good inducement and the card offered is a good one.

Ty Cobb says he's not worrying about the question of salary and is sure of getting his $9,000 next year. "I know that Mr. Navin is able to pay his ball players what they are worth," recently declared Cobb, "and while I do not think him as rich as a Standard Oil magnate, still he was able to erect a $300,000 baseball plant in Detroit. I have been treated nicely by Mr. Navin, but I have treated him nicely."

Billy Clymer, who handled the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York state league last season, is said to be the man who will get the place vacant by George Stallings, as manager of the Buffalo club in the International league. Stallings will try to pry Boston Braves out of last place next year.

Brooklyn will have a magnificent new ball park for next season and the fans have a right to expect a stronger ball team. Charlie Ebbets would consider a change if he could land the right man, and it is said that Jimmie Sheekard is the fellow he has in mind.

Young Jack O'Brien will not meet Packey McFarland, as the best weight that McFarland will make for Jack is 145 pounds.

Young Mike Donovan, a son of the famous Mike Donovan, has entered the professional ranks and will fight in the welterweight class.

Once more Tommy Ryan has come to life by declaring that he has quit the boxing game because Jack Johnson has put the sport on the blink.

What Sterne Said.

Sterne once said that the most accomplished way of using books is to serve them as some do lords; learn their titles and then brag of their acquaintance.

Mrs. Fred Laabs, 408 High Forest, Winona, Minn., states: "My husband had kidney trouble with severe pain across his back and was miserable and tired out. His bladder acted irregularly and there was a brick dust like sediment. Finally he took Foley Kidney Pills with the result that the pain left him, his bladder acted regularly and he was strong and well again." Badger Drug Co.

During the past ten days the bulk of the money to loan in the New York market has been drawn from out-of-town sources, New York institutions being well loaned up. This condition would seem to preclude for some time to come, lower rates than now obtain. In foreign money centers, there is likewise an insistent demand for money, and it would seem that the nervousness generated by the war in the near East, must disappear, before the tendency demand for credits will follow a resumption of investment buying by Europe. This of itself is enough to maintain present rates. The world's leading bullionism, particularly in Germany, Russia and Austria, has been badly upset. The return to normal in European banking conditions will be gradual, even though nothing unforeseen occurs.

The Stock Market. Careful students of market conditions agree that, higher prices are to be expected for stocks, even though high rates for money continue. This assumption is based as much upon the technical position of the market as upon basic conditions. When both of these factors are on the side of higher prices, it seems as though no other outcome is to be expected. Fundamental conditions are particularly sound. Commercial business is satisfactory. Manufacturers are busy. While banking resources are not sufficient to meet the demand, nevertheless, loans at the present time are not overextended. The avidity with which stocks were absorbed when Europe was pouring a volume of securities in our market some three weeks ago, seems to be conclusive evidence that American bankers considered the stocks being offered as bargains. This being true, little selling is to be expected until these securities show large profits. The election now being settled satisfactorily, a resumption of the upward movement in prices for stocks would seem to be in order, particularly since a most prosperous period appears to be upon us. There are many issues which should not be a fair profit if purchased at present prices. Standard Railroad shares are more attractive from an investment viewpoint than the Industrial issues.

Answers to Inquiries. Steel Stocks: The more important steel companies are reported to be doing an enormous business. Tariff agitation will no doubt sooner or later affect these issues. It would seem advisable to sell Steel shares and re-invest in some Railroad stock. Either Atchison, Topoka & Santa Fe or Baltimore & Ohio Railroad should prove satisfactory.

Wabash Railroad. Earnings under the management of the receiver's hands and the assessments have been paid, I believe, the Common stock of this company will be a very profitable stock to buy. At the present time I believe both the Common and Preferred stocks should be sold. Either no doubt can be replaced after the assessments have been paid, at a price about equal to the assessment.

Copper Shares. The month of October will probably see an increase in the world's copper surplus of from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 pounds. In the meantime, prices for copper metal hold fairly well, but show no sign of advancing. The Copper companies are earning enormous profits at the present price for the metal. I believe such shares as Utah Copper, Chino Copper and Nevada Consolidated Copper will sell higher.

Attractive Investments. I believe any of the following shares will show a fair profit before the first of the year: Atchison, Topoka & Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway Preferred, or New York Central.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Tom McNeal writes: "The other day we were riding through the country on a railroad train. It was a mighty hot day, but as we passed a farmhouse a medium-sized dog dashed out at the train. He was the most earnest-looking dog we have seen for a long time. He was evidently a dog that saw what he considered to be his duty and proposed to do it if it killed him. For a few rods the race between the train and the dog was even, then the train began to draw away, and evidently the dog was getting near the boundary of the premises he was guarding. When he reached the line he stopped with a look of keen satisfaction on his face that came from a duty well performed. He was saying to himself in dog language: 'There is one of those infernal things I have chased away. That makes five today already. If it weren't for me to watch things around here this infernal smoking, tooting thing would take the place. I don't know what will become of these people if I ever get so old and crippled that I will not be able to get out any more and scare these trains away.' Now, that dog gets an immense amount of satisfaction out of what he thinks amounts to a great service to that family in particular and humanity in general. Now, there are a great many people who have no better sense than that dog."—Kansas City Star.

"The dog," the principal character in this little story, is familiar to all travelers. He always commands attention as a sprinter, and his loyalty to self-imposed duty is worthy of a better cause. If perchance a railroad don't pass the house, an automobile answers every purpose, and the same kind of a dog is on hand to escort it to the boundary line.

The world is well represented by a class of people who possess the same characteristics. People who load themselves with needless cares and responsibilities, and who take life so seriously that they assume the roll of guardianship, and imagine that they are balance wheels, rather than little cogs in the complicated machinery of life.

The dog who chases the train is not a very close observer, neither is he endowed with ordinary dog sense. He is simply a victim of habit, and while his time is not very valuable he might better spend it gnawing a bone in the shade, and watching the premises from the corner of the house.

The American people are peculiar, in some respects. They like to assume responsibility whether occasion demands it or not. They like to assume responsibility whether occasion demands it or not. They would rather direct than perform, and as a result the country is long on direction, and short on native performers.

This fact is recognized in the domain of agriculture. The average American boy soon wears of bossing the "old man," and following the plow, and so makes a break for the towns and cities in search of a larger field to satisfy his energies.

As a result the thrifty foreigner comes in as a landlord or tenant, and the native American farmer ceases to be a producer, while his boy sometimes goes to the front, but more often loiters by the way in some cheap clerkship where the high cost of living is of absorbing interest.

The same conditions prevail in the industrial world. The American boy is ambitious for an education. He graduates from the high school or college at an age when he feels competent to become a director, but has no desire to become a performer, and so an office position is sought as the shortest route to success.

Were it not for the world, and its liberal annual contribution of performers, our industries would be so seriously crippled that many of them would die a natural death.

The one important fact which the average American boy fails to recognize, because he is not a close observer, is that there is no short route to successful directorship.

The man who handles men, or who approaches the front in any great enterprise, is the man who took orders himself, in the rough and tumble experience of boyhood.

It is said that there are more Irishmen in America than in Ireland, and they are not all on the police force or in politics. If you have ever studied a railroad guide, with reference to the nationalities represented in the list of officers, and men in positions of responsibility, you have been impressed with the fact that the Irish race was well to the front.

If you have ever bounced around in a caboose, at the tail end of a freight train, on any American railroad, you have rubbed up against the embryo official of the future, for he was in the crew.

The man who sold you your ticket or sent you your telegram, was an American boy, and he will be doing the same kind of work until he passes the age limit, while "Mike" forgets him in the race.

Some of our national peculiarities come to us by the right of inheritance. The restless spirit which chafed under oppression, and prompted our forefathers to sail out on an unknown sea in quest of a new world, is still with us, and the ambition for conquest has lost nothing in the passage of time.

Children, in the average home, develop in an atmosphere of "don'ts." The little kingdom over which the father and mother preside, instills in the mind of the child a desire to be on the defensive, and he goes out to battle with life with a false conception of what the conflict means.

The little annoyances of life, have been magnified, and with new-born independence, which comes to him as a relief, he aspires to leadership, and soon acquires a stock of wisdom which is equal to any emergency.

Much of his energy is wasted in chasing phantoms, but like the dog, dashing after the train, he is slow to discover his error.

The spirit which prompts people to assume unnecessary responsibilities and tackle every burden in sight, never produces very much, but trouble, by way of results.

The father and mother, left in the home, after the children are gone, usually feel that they know more about how the grandchildren should be brought up than anybody else, and so many lives in the shadow period are filled with trouble and worry, which has no right to exist.

There are some preachers who take life so seriously that they have forgotten how to smile. The burden of responsibility assumed, is too much for them, and the journey through life becomes a vale of tears, when the good Lord intended it to be a highway of happiness.

Even so great a man as Colonel Roosevelt permitted himself to become so self-centered that he imagined he was the only man who could save the country, when there was no more danger of its going to destruction than there was of the train, running over the farmhouse.

Scientists claim that all of us are beset by some species of mild insanity, and that a little cultivation develops habits about as useless and difficult to understand as the dog habit.

The trains of life are rushing by, on all sorts of missions. We can't stop them by a wave of the hand, or annoy them by chasing across the front yard as they go by. The only sensible thing to do is to join the procession with the cargo intact and steam up, don't you think?

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

According to Uncle Abner, "One job I wouldn't want is that of weather surveyor at Medicine Hat. It doesn't matter much what car you buy, you don't have it more than fifteen minutes before it is two years behind the style."

William Tibbits, our postmaster, says he hates to think of 1-cent postage, for then everybody will write letters and there won't be any more rustcards to read.

There ain't no feller that kin act more mysterious than the telegraph operator in a small town.

Constable Ezra Hand requests that the culprit who stole his star while he was asleep in front of the Golden Nugget saloon the other afternoon, will please return the same and no questions will be asked.

The season has arrived when the public kin save a lot of money that they have hitherto been spending for punk watermelons.

Our Confession of Faith.

We have received the following letter:
Boston, Mass., Oct. 15th.

Dear Sir:—

Will you please outline your political policy for your multitude of readers. What party do you belong to?
Sincerely Yours,
CONSTANT READER.

Certainly.
The party we belong to is a small party with dark hair and blue eyes. Weight, 123 pounds, height, five feet two inches; age, twenty-seven; and then some. We have belonged to this party for several years and have no idea of changing.

We are Episcopalian in belief, but we do not allow this to interfere with our better judgment in the selection of a candidate. We always vote for the best man and for all we care, he may be an Altopath, a Homeopath, an Osteopath, or a Chiropractic.

We are the advance agent for prosperity.
We do not think a man is wrong politically just because he disagrees with us. We know he is.
We believe that, in this country, one man is just as good as another.

Oh, how I love the old plush hat. I bought four years ago. I poke it into some new shape. It never before did know. And then it is in vogue again. Quite swell, and up-to-date. It is the best investment that I've chanced to make of late.

This year I jumped on it a lot. And beat it up a little. I let a car run over it. And lo! it's right in style.

Conduits connecting the central heating plant with the various buildings, some of which are as much as nine blocks apart from each other.

The buildings must be heated throughout the academic year, a period of approximately eight months and a half. About 25,000 tons of coal are consumed each year. By buying, in large quantities the university gets its coal for an average price of $2.85 per ton delivered. All coal is purchased on the basis of the heat energy present in the coal, and the state university was the first state institution to purchase coal according to this method.

After being purchased, the coal is dumped into a hopper and distributed by mechanical conveyors to bins above the boilers having a capacity of 4,000 tons. All coal is weighed automatically as it is fed to the furnaces. Automatic stokers are used and only two men are required to be in attendance to look after the feed pumps and stokers for the entire plant.

Daily records are kept of the coal burned and water evaporated in the boilers, together with records of all expenses of maintenance and repairs. These records for the last six years show an average total cost of thirty-two cents per square foot of radiation per year for heating. This is a very reasonable figure, especially since most of the buildings are at considerable distances from each other and are in exposed positions—near the shore of Lake Mendota. The chimney of the central heating plant is 250 feet high and has an inside diameter of 14 feet. The entire heating plant was designed, its equipment and distribution system planned, and the construction of the whole supervised by members of the faculty of the state university. This made the total cost to the state of the plans and specifications of the heating plant only about one-fourth of what they otherwise would have been.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

Prof. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, explains why Royal Baking Powder adds healthful qualities to the food.

Testifying before the Pure Food Committee of Congress, the Professor stated that fruit acids were excellent articles of food and that of these cream of tartar, the acid of grapes, held rank with the highest both in itself and its effect in the process of leavening and baking. He regarded the results from cream of tartar baking powder as favorable to health. Scientists and hygienists are in accord with this opinion.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar.

OFFICIAL RETURNS SHOW FEW CHANGES

COUNTY BOARD OF ELECTION
CANVASSERS COMPLETE
WORK LATE TODAY.

FIGHT ON MCGOVERN

Was Keen in County As Shown by Small Plurality—Other State
Candidates Run Far Ahead of Him.

Members of the county board of canvassers of election returns will complete their work late today and their report will be forwarded to the secretary of state at Madison. The figures, as officially compiled, show few changes from the unofficial returns as announced by the newspapers the day following election.

One interesting phase of the election was shown by the county, however, when it became evident that the Republican candidates for secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer and lieutenant governor, ran way ahead of McGovern, in their pluralities.
This indicated the intensity of the fight between Karel and McGovern in this section of the state.

The total vote for governor in Rock county was 7,526, of which McGovern received 4,717, Karel 2,263, Chas.
L. Hill Prohibitionist, 319, and Carl
D. Thompson (Socialist) 227, making McGovern's plurality 454. Karel, carried 13 of the 37 precincts of the county, as follows: All five wards of the city of Janesville and the towns of Milton, La Prairie, Rock, Johns town, Janesville, Harmony, Bradford and the city of Edgerton.

The vote on lieutenant governor was as follows: Thomas McGovern
4,843, Harry W. Bolens 3,641, Joseph
V. Collins 305, Harry M. Park 203, and John Vierthaler 82. McGovern's plurality was 1,202.

The vote on secretary of state was:
John S. Donald 1,887, Andrew P. Kealy
3,471, Herbert J. Noyes 293, Rae-Weaver 208, William Roessman 82. Donald's plurality 1,416.

The vote on state treasurer stands:
Henry Johnson 4,882, Nicholas
Schmitt 3,432, Thomas Edwards 303,
Henry J. Ammon 200, Nic. Semmelhack 74. Johnson's plurality 1,450.

The result of the vote on attorney general was: Walter C. Owen 4,717,
Chas. A. Kading 3,439, Herbert S. Sig-gelko 472, Lynn D. Joseph 194, John
W. Swanson 74. Owen's plurality
1,278.

In the contest for the assembly
Alexander Paul, democrat, defeated Marshall P. Richardson, republican, by a majority of 450, according to the official count. Richardson carried six of the sixteen precincts in the district: City of Evansville, Milton village, towns of Union, Porter, Magnolia and Center.

Rosa's majority over Charles: Oliver in the second district contest for the assembly was 1,435, Rosa receiving 2,515 and Oliver 1,440. Oliver carried two towns, Rock and Harmony, out of the 21 precincts. The vote was a tie in La Prairie.

The result on state senator was as follows: L. E. Cunningham 5,109,
Ed. M. Carey 3,330, Henry H. Mullin
319. Cunningham's plurality, 1,779.
Carey carried eight precincts, the second, third, fourth and fifth wards of Janesville, and the towns of Fulton, Janesville, Milton and Rock. In Walworth county Cunningham's plurality was 1,134, according to the unofficial returns.

Congressman Henry Allen Cooper's plurality in Rock county was 1,948 over his democratic opponent, Calvin
Stewart. The vote stood as follows:
Cooper 5,215, Stewart 3,267, Kellogg
(prohib.) 320, Orth (soc.) 206.

Canvass of the returns for the county ticket was completed today with the following result:

County clerk, Howard W. Lee
5,623, Fred B. Sherman 3,043; Lee's majority 2,580. County treasurer:
Frank L. Livermore 5,424, Clark Palmer 3,164; Livermore's majority,
2,260. Sheriff: Cassius S. Whipple,
5,797, Edward H. Connell 3,183; Whipple's majority 2,609. Clerk of the circuit court: Jesse Earle 5,523, David
T. Borer 2,983; Earle's majority 2,540.
District attorney: Stanley G. Dunwidale 5,479, Robert M. Richmond
3,143; Dunwidale's majority, 2,336.
Register of deeds: Frank P. Smiley
5,536, Frank Hyne 2,992; Smiley's majority, 2,594. County surveyor, Robert Caldwell, 3,340.

Canvass of the presidential returns were not completed at four o'clock this afternoon.

state game warden's department.

BOOSTERS BRIGADE MADE LONG JOURNEY

Auto Loads of Enthusiasts Spread Tidings of Janesville's Big Week
Through County.

Friday's tour of Rock county by the Janesville Boosters was a success.
The party traveled by auto covering some ninety miles and spread the glad tidings of Janesville's big bargain week of sales in the retail stores and the great "Made in Janesville" exhibit at the Auditorium. Wherever the boosters stopped they were greeted with enthusiasm and the Bower City band furnished added inspiration with excellent music. A stop was made at Edgerton at noon for dinner after which the party continued on their journey.

Although several cars lost some of their passengers at different points along the route, all returned to Janesville in good season, tire troubles and a few minor break downs being the only accidents recorded except the complaint of a farmer near Lima that one of the cars had struck one of his cows breaking its leg. He telephoned the Gazette office yesterday afternoon stating that he had the number of the car,
No. 13399 and that he wanted a settlement made.

The boosters' committee having in charge the automobile tours are desirous of expressing their appreciation to those owners who loaned cars for the trip Friday. It is the hope that everyone of these men will again respond to the call for Monday's trip and have their machines on hand at 8:30 o'clock at the Janesville Floral Co.
The tremendous success of Friday's trip can be attributed to the enthusiasm of those participating and their civilized tour.

The loan of the automobiles which is a most generous act made possible a forward move which will be felt for Janesville's good, many months.
Let every automobile owner who possibly can be present Monday.

The run on Monday will be as follows: Shopiere, Clinton, Sharon, Big Foot, Walworth, Elkhorn, Delavan,
Darwin, Fairfield, Avalon, Emerald
Grove. Dinner at Elkhorn House, Elkhorn, Wis.

COUNTY SANITARIUM TO BE CONSIDERED

County Supervisors Will Doubtless Take Matter up Although Special Committee Has Not Met.

Although the special committee named by Chairman A. C. Gray at the county board meeting last April for the purpose of investigating the matter of a tuberculosis sanitarium for Rock county, has had no meeting as yet, it is probable that the construction of such an institution will be seriously considered by the county board at their meeting next week.

Miss Tate, representing the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, who presented the matter at the April session, was in Janesville recently again investigating the matter and testing public sentiment. It is possible that she will be here next week to again urge the appropriation of a large enough sum to start the building immediately. It would be necessary for the board to make some provision in the county budget at this time if the sanitarium is to be a possibility next year.

Miss Tate is discussing the hospital declared the cost would be approximately $15,000. Part of this might easily be met with a bond issue and within a very few years she predicted that the institution would be self supporting as the percentage of patients to be cured for at the county's expense would be very small.

There is no doubt that Miss Tate impressed the board with the importance of such an institution in the county, and as no action was possible at the April meeting, it was decided to name a committee to report in November.

L. B. Gettle of Edgerton, was named chairman and the other members are Simon Smith, Beloit and
J. L. Bear, Janesville. It was Mr.
Gettle's proposal that this committee be named and he suggested that they look at the propositions from every possible angle.

Nearly 500 Cases.
There have been 263 deaths in Rock county in the past three and a half years, and unless the county sanitarium is provided for the next five years will almost certainly show a great many more deaths than that.

Even more important than death of 62 in 1911, is the fact that there are,
at this time, no less than 496 suffering from the disease in Rock county, according to the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association.

Anyone who has had experience with consumption, and there are few families so fortunate as not to have felt the sting of suffering and death from this cause, know how deadly the disease has been in the past. Experience in Wisconsin and elsewhere throughout the country has demonstrated that the sanatoria, however frequently cured or their health sufficiently restored to enable them to go on enjoying life for many years.

Money vs. Life.
Patients who are not cured, but still are practically so, may live with the disease long enough to die of old
the disease long enough to die of old age. This may not sound like much of a victory, but if the unfortunate victim happens to be you, your wife, brother, sister or child, you want that chance of life, and what's more, you're entitled to it.

This is no time to weigh the interest charge on a miserly sum of money and put it against life. Let alone the 263 who have died in the past three and a half years, or the 496 who are living now but will almost certainly be dead in the coming five years unless they receive the assistance they are entitled to.

Tuberculosis is no disease of paupers; but it will pauperize almost any self-respecting family that has to support it for two or three years. Under present circumstances, it's a lucky family that gets out of it, for one victim follows another, not because the disease is hereditary but because it "runs in families" just as measles, scarlet fever, etc., etc., "run in families."

VICTIM OF RUNAWAYACCIDENT BURIED

Funeral of Thirteen-Year-Old Rudolph Albrecht of Center, Was Held Yesterday Afternoon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Center, Nov. 9. The funeral of Rudolph Albrecht, thirteen-year-old boy, died of injuries received in a runaway accident, was held yesterday afternoon from the home of his parents at one o'clock and at two o'clock from the Lutheran church.
The funeral was conducted by the Rev. F. W. Wenzel in the presence of a large company of friends and relatives of the youth. The pallbearers were William Ballmer, W.
E. Reed, Louis Koplin, and William Harbeck. Interment was made in Bethel cemetery, Rudolph Albrecht was born in Mecklenburg, Germany, and came to this country with his parents nine years ago. His mother died in Germany when he was two years old. His father, stepmother, four sisters and one brother survive him.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Anna Radigan.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Radigan was held at nine o'clock this morning from St. Patrick's church and was attended by large assemblage of friends and relatives of the deceased. Dean
E. E. Reilly celebrated high mass and

BEAUTIFUL LETTER BY FATHER JOSEPH

WRITTEN TO THE SISTERS OF MERCY ENCLOSING HIS SHARE FOR CONSTRUC-TION OF HOSPITAL.

AIDS HOSPITAL FUND

From His Scanty Funds—Read of the Building in the Columns of the Gazette Which He Receives Daily.

Even from the far off Leper settlement in the Hawaiian Islands, has come a contribution, a gold piece of magnitude, to aid the Sisters of Mercy in constructing their hospital here in Janesville. But even better than the gift itself, is the spirit that prompted the gift and made the sacrifice to send his mite to the great cause. Father Joseph Dutton, whose life of devotion to the cause of suffering humanity, is one of the beautiful lessons of the present day and age, has written many charming letters to the Gazette and friends in Janesville, but the following description of his island home, his devotion to the work of alleviating the suffering of mankind, is remarkable, and it is hoped will be read with interest and suggest to the readers to also aid in the cause of the Sisters and their hospital as has Brother Joseph.

My dear Mother and Sisters all:—

You are Sisters of Mercy, so you must have Mercy on me and forgive me for not acknowledging your letters at once—Dear letters so valuable and interesting to me. You see,
I wished to write you a real, good,
old-fashioned letter, furthermore,
besides prayers for the success of your hospital plans, I hoped to send a little coin of some sort, but I never had a cent to spare. Those dear letters to be sacrificed by holy works of Mercy—works just the same as ours here, better indeed, if the intentions are better, and very likely,
at least some of them are.

Am a pauper, poor old fellow, but the birds here are my friends. You may remember Miss Thursty's smart myriads bird from India (I think) that could talk after a fashion, (I imagine) in several languages, and was valued at $5,000, now "deceased".
Our myriads are not so valuable and cannot talk at all, also they are not very numerous here, but we have lots of them, thousands around the home, all over in fact in the day time. The dining room, with open doors and windows makes a good field for them and Brother Maternus wears himself out chasing them.

Many breed in my little yard, adjoining the office, in the Pandanus and Lantana trees, the plants, more commonly called "wonderfully large ones" and the main army of them stay at night in the 3,000-Eucalyptus trees—just back of my little yard. My cabin (or cottage) windows are of one sash, sliding back and forth. All are usually open day and night, save one just in front of the bed. In the morning one hour before mass (and daily communion)
I get up, when actually having been in bed, or if not at all, as last night, and I get right before (to economize in housework—making the bed) I anyway shove that one window back as usual the first thing, and those blessed birds immediately begin Ma-

REPUBLICAN QUARREL
REASON FOR DEFEAT

CANNOT BE CONSTRUED AS A VICTORY FOR DEMOCRATIC PARTY POLICIES.

WILSON BEHIND BRYAN

Commoner Received as Many Votes
Sixteen Years Ago as Successful Candidate Did.

By ELLIS B. USHER.

Milwaukee, Nov. 9.—The results of the election call for no tears from anybody and might have people are unhappy about it. As a study in political psychology it will be interesting for a long time for it is as incoherent in its details as the pre-election predictions, which were, except as to Taft, of them partly right. Primarily it was a republican family row. Like the two brothers who quarreled as to which should have the ancestral homestead and finally wound up the row by selling it to a stranger for a song, the republican party split its eight million votes almost in the middle and left Mr. Wilson's six and a half millions walk over the course to victory. It is a republican defeat, not a democratic victory. Bryan never ran for president when his popular vote was such a wretched one as Wilson's. Even in 1896, sixteen years ago, he got 6,508,000 votes, which approximates Wilson's vote of last Tuesday. Wisconsin illustrates the general situation. According to total returns are available Wilson's total vote will be 10,000 to 20,000 less than Bryan's four years ago. This is all the more impressive when it is realized that thousands of republicans undoubtedly voted for Wilson. As I suggested, was possible some time since in one of my letters, the Roosevelt deflection on a light vote was Wilson's sole opportunity in Wisconsin. The voters crossed lines in every direction, back and forth, and the total vote is less than it was four years ago, if present figures are approximately correct. There were 454,441 votes cast for president in this state four years ago, and it looks now as if the number cast last Tuesday would be over 50,000 short of that. In Milwaukee county, where the campaign was hottest, it is over 1000 short. Wilson has only 1800 more votes than Bryan had, while Debs gets 2,433 more in this county than he had four years ago, and Taft over 10,000 less. Roosevelt's 5,700 votes gave the county to Wilson. Mr. Wilson is the greatest minority president in history, as to the popular vote and the most overwhelmingly a majority president as to the electoral vote. But if the election had been determined by direct vote of the people the result would have been the same for he would have it by something like 2,000,000 votes over Roosevelt who ran second.

In the state my predictions appear to be fulfilled as to McGovern's winning. The state officials have the only political organization left in Wisconsin, and the democrats have none. The number is not at hand but men who were out in the field said that in whole counties not a democrat was running for local office. That's the inevitable result of the primary system. Gov. McGovern, if he has won, has a personal victory that nobody can fairly underestimate. I write it looks close but in McGovern's favor. With all there was of a democratic campaign trained against him, and La Follette knifing him, it unquestionably makes him the biggest political figure in Wisconsin, and with Roosevelt's commanding position, nationally, it puts the governor in the front row for the next turn of the national box. "Old things have passed away." The next turn of national politics depends on supreme wisdom on the part of the democratic party. They are in on an overwhelming popular minority. There will be three critics on every half acre in the country for every questioning supporter. It were to preposterous I should say that the only possible chance for Mr. Wilson to be re-elected four years hence, is for the democrats to introduce and get under discussion, as soon as congress assembled next month, an honest tariff for revenue bill, and pass it a year from next month, so it will have time to prove that the calamity howlers are all wrong, before the next election. Mr. Wilson's administration has got to do better than either his platform or his campaign talk on this question, or he will fall through the same hole Mr. Taft did. The people want less taxes. That's the only way to reduce high prices. They know better than the politicians, and they'll have their way some day, and the longer it is postponed the harder the job.

Woman's suffrage was overwhelmingly beaten and largely through the influence of the women who don't want to vote and made no noise but used their influence with their husbands and brothers, and sweethearts. The good old fashioned American womanly woman, backed her organized-touting sister "clear off the boards," to use a slang phrase that she would eschew. But she mustn't think her victory is a safe and secure one. The danger is, in the present atmosphere of progressivism, that a remedy for our tremendous stay-at-home vote will be one of the next proposals. A progressive remedy is always a new statistic, and it's the making of a punishable offense not to vote, with a penalty of fine or something more severe. If such a law should first be passed the suffrage should later be conferred upon women, the escape for those who say they will not vote, will be beset with troubles greater than those they have yet known. The women who don't want to be forced to vote will have to keep their eyes and ears open and use their influence, or they will be landed finally. They should keep their eyes out and beat compulsory voting schemes as well as suffrage bills.

The campaign has developed a good many kinds of liars and among them, and it cost Taft votes the prosperity liar. The big crop is among the possible embarrassments. The railroads are already hard up against a car shortage. Delay in getting to market eats up the profits on the crop pretty fast and in some cases, western fruit for instance, it is eating up the crop itself. The money market has been banded up against speculation as the frequent raises in the prices of all loans in New York have shown. Every time an attempt was made to start an upward spurt in the market the banks have put up rates and choked it off. With a political revolution on the stage there will be no kidding of the railroads can get cheaper money the cost of living will not be getting any less. The tendency to public extravagance, as the result of new and excessive taxation is the largest avenue of waste and possible corruption now organizing in this country. The plunderers are joining the ranks of reform and crying "stop thief!" lustily, as they are preparing to load the public with new burdens. This is not politics. But it is getting to be politics and it is without any party preferences.

Advertisement.

As an illustration of the results of the growing cost of living, about which we are all concerned, in these days, I am going to use some facts that will appeal to Wisconsin people for two reasons; one because the railroad is not within our state, and therefore an unbiased illustration and because its president has a host of friends in Wisconsin who know and believe in him. I put the word "advertisement" over this paragraph, simply because it is using the name and affairs of the Erie road, which I want to show, and think the discussion of the road's affairs may be worth something to it, as a business proposition, because it is a trunk line to the east and one of steadily growing importance to Wisconsin and every other state that must ship to and receive freight from the Atlantic seaboard. Last year, according to the company's annual report, it paid $1,817,325.07 in taxes, which was the enormous increase over the year previous, of about $427,000 or nearly 25%. This increase came in part from the government and in part from the states. Another important paragraph in the report says that 61.57% of the total operating expenses of the road were paid to its 38,327 employees. The Erie operates 2,444 miles of road, so it employs more than 15 men to the mile. The figures suggest the large proportion of money, transported, that goes into wages directly, but the other industries running from the car and locomotive works, back to the mines, and the forests, promote prosperity all the way. Increasing tax and other public burdens are becoming a serious menace to all productive industries and every protective industry must get its wares to market as cheaply as possible to save the wealth that has been created by the miner, the woodsman and the farmer.

Short Notes.

The old masters were seen by over 5,000 people but that, though larger than any previous attendance at the Milwaukee Art Society's exhibitions was small for such an unusual collection of pictures. Perhaps it would have drawn better if attention had been called to the fact that the collection was worth more than $300,000. The Van Dyke alone was worth $75,000. On Wednesday next the society will show 42 canvases by Childe Hassam, one of the popular modern American painters. They will remain for two weeks. People living about the state will find these exhibitions well worthy of their attention.

Teddy might have the bullet taken out now and send it to Milwaukee. There's really a serious effort on by Newman Erb, to get control of the Green Bay road. A circular has been sent out to all stockholders to ascertain their position in the matter of change of control, or of sale outright. Mr. Erb is said to have secured an option on a substantial part of the stock, and must procure in addition to those covered by the option enough to make 75%.

CLINTON

Clinton, Nov. 8.—Mesdames O. L. Woodward, R. W. Cheever, J. M. Waller and daughter Gertrude left yesterday for Florida to spend the winter. Mesdames Cheever and Woodward will return via Washington, D. C., and will be there March 4 at the inauguration of President-Elect Wilson.

Eugene Gilbert and wife motored up from Rockford yesterday afternoon to consult his business partner E. B. Hawks.

The Misses Northrop were in Janesville Wednesday and Miss Lenora went to Chicago yesterday morning.

The local democrats who are aspirants to the office of post master have already begun to set their stakes and pull their wires and a good lively time is predicted. It is a safe wager that whoever gets the office, it will be moved to a new location.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Drake of Delavan spent Wednesday here visiting his brother C. P. Drake and wife.

The host of friends of W. I. Harris will be pleased to learn that he is resting very easily at present.

Prof. G. W. Puffer is attending the state teachers' convention at Milwaukee.

E. B. Hawks was unable to be at the office yesterday on account of illness.

Mesdames W. H. Hamilton and D. G. Smith entertained their lady friends at a one o'clock luncheon yesterday afternoon.

Miss Lucy Hitchcock of Marion, Iowa, arrived yesterday noon to visit her sister Mrs. O. J. Boden.

Mrs. Searchlight and two daughter, of Janesville are visiting at the home of Madam Mary Scott.

William T. Dooley who is compelled to quit farming on account of poor health will have a sale of his farm goods Monday November 25. Mr. Dooley has purchased a house and lot in Harvard where his youngest daughter lives and he and his son and daughter will move to that city and make it their future home. Clinton people will regret to lose them and are sorry they did not move to this town.

Mesdames J. F. Kemmerer and W. B. Northway are representing the local M. E. church, and Missionary Society at the district missionary convention,

Hard Times For Soldiers and Animals After Chattanooga

Of the troops on the Union side fighting under Gen. Grant in the campaign around Chattanooga, were a number of Janesville men, some of them members of the Twelfth Battery, part of whose members were recruited in this city by E. G. Harlow, then a lieutenant in the army. One of the members of the battery was Wheeler S. Bowen of this city, who for a number of years was editor of the Janesville Gazette. An interesting account of the experiences of the battery following some of the great battles around Chattanooga was written by Mr. Bowen in a letter to the Gazette, published December 1, 1863. The battery was then stationed on the bank of the Tennessee near the pontoon bridge over which which Sherman's army had crossed in pursuit of the fleeing rebels under Bragg. The reason why the battery had to remain behind, instead of taking part in the pursuit of the enemy are given in the letter.

Sherman's Pontoon,
Nov. 28, 1863.

Editors Gazette:

The great battle so long pending is at last over, and the result is all we can wish, and much more we ever dared hope for. Bragg's army is cut up, demoralized, and scattered in all directions, while the victorious Grant is closely pressing the retreating enemy. Of the number of prisoners and munitions of war taken, you have doubtless learned more accurately than I can inform you, for we can learn nothing reliable, all is a confused jumble of facts and rumors here. The battery was engaged two days, from position occupied by us on the night of the 23d, on the high bank of the Tennessee river, and from which we had a good view of all the fighting on the west side of the ridge, and could watch the effects of our shells and judge their efficiency. The country here is so hilly that there is not much chance for the artillery of the attacking party, and the heavy work. Our horses were taken from us on the morning of the second day's fight and sent to Chattanooga to haul General Thomas' artillery out to the front, most of the battery horses in his command having been sent to Nashville, as no feed could be obtained here. Our own horses were in a miserable condition when they were taken from us as they had been fed but once in five days, and when they were recruited, after two days' hard work, were scarcely able to stand. A number of them have died from overwork and starvation. On the morning of the 24th, it was discovered the rebels had evacuated their whole line, and were on the skedaddle. This was not unexpected news to us, for we knew well that the victory was ours when the night before our men charged and held the center of the ridge, thus cutting the rebel army in two, yet two joyful intelligence and served to strengthen our confidence in the new way never yet has failed to lead us to victory, General Grant. We could not join in the pursuit for reasons heretofore mentioned—the want of flesh on our horses' frames—and were therefore ordered into camp at the pontoon bridge, thrown over for the crossing of Sherman's troops, and here we have remained, spending most of our time gathering food from the country we have gained.

Our division as usual, has been badly cut up. They went in when the firing was the heaviest, to support Ewing's division, which had got into a bad position was being raked by a cross-fire from the rebels. I have not learned the number killed and wounded, nor can I form any estimate by merely viewing the battle ground.

We do not expect to remain here any length of time as our division came back here this afternoon, and we will soon be in a condition to rejoin it. Rations are among the things that were. We live on what we can get, and as the commissary is minus everything, there is no danger of our eating enough to make us sick.

The draft list was read with interest by the boys, but the opinion seems to prevail that the three hundred dollar clause will rob us of the presence of a few whom we are extremely anxious to associate with for the next fifteen months.

Yours, W. S. B.

EDGERTON WOMAN INJURED
BY FALL FROM CARRIAGE

Couple From Edgerton Had Accident While Driving and Woman Was Eadie Bruised.

According to a report today, an Edgerton couple, who were driving in this city last night, met with an accident and the woman fell from the carriage and was badly bruised. The accident occurred late in the evening, as the couple drove to the home of a third ward physician and aroused him from his slumbers to have the woman's injuries attended to. The woman was almost hysterical and declared her arm had been broken by a fall from a buggy. The doctor made an examination but found no bones broken. The couple said they were from Edgerton. The woman was partially intoxicated.

Miss Gertrude McGimley and William Menzies furnished the music for the dance program. The dancing lasted until one o'clock.

Give Good Cheer.

There is contagion in a sweet and beautiful character, for health is contagious as well as disease. We are all the time giving to others either wholesome or unwholesome moods—poisoning their atmosphere with doubt and suspicion or clearing it with helpfulness and good cheer.—Phillips Brooks.

Knees Became Stiff

Five Years of Severe Rheumatism. The cure of Henry J. Goldstein, 15 Barton Street, Boston, Mass., is another victory by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has succeeded in many cases where others have utterly failed. Mr. Goldstein says: "I suffered from rheumatism five years, it kept me from business and caused excruciating pain. My knees would become as stiff as steel. I tried many medicines without relief, then I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, soon felt much better, and now consider myself entirely cured. I recommend Hood's." Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsaparilla.

D. W. WATT Tells of the Troubles of the Adjusters of a Big Circus

Perhaps the average citizen fails to appreciate the fact that all big circus and amusement companies are subject to more or less imposition in the way of claim adjusters who seek damages for alleged injuries or wrongs inflicted and that the "settlement" bureau of a big show is really a fine art. The average circus proprietor can not afford to have his show held up by an attachment, perhaps miss an engagement, and consequently he often settles a claim quickly, for more than the real damage inflicted rather than have a lawsuit. The schemers know this fact and the unscrupulous often play upon it most successfully.

It takes tact and diplomacy to become a successful adjuster and while all the big shows today carry a legal representative with them to handle these matters, in days gone by these settlements were made by some show representative on the spur of the minute.

In this week's article Mr. Watt tells some of the incidents of this nature that occurred while he was with the Forepaugh show, and they prove most interesting reading.

Thinking that the reader might possibly be interested in the different happenings along the road at different times with the "Big Show," I will tell you of a few that happened.

We were showing in Boston, Massachusetts, opening there Monday for a two weeks' engagement and Dr. Carver, the great rifle shot was the feature, or at least was the one great feature with the show. The show always opened afternoon and evening with the doctor's act which consisted of breaking glass balls, thrown high in the air, with a rifle, riding at full speed around the hippodrome track.

After this act was over Dr. Carver would then take a shot gun and endeavor to break seven glass balls thrown high in the air before they struck the ground. About the middle of the first week of our engagement there, one of the shots went wild and struck a man on the eye and while it did quite a little, it did no particular damage.

But he was a sharper and spread the blood around his eye and climbed down the seats and told a few people that he had been shot in the eye and passed out of the show and went to his home.

The news soon got to Mr. Forepaugh and of course he was anxious to make a settlement. He sent one of the head men with the show to find the man and settle with him and not to return until a settlement was made, regardless of the cost. His claim agent took a carriage and set out to find the man.

After the show was all over about a dozen of us waited impatiently in the ticket wagon for the return of the claim agent and to find out how much money it cost to shoot a man's eye out in Boston. About 11 o'clock he returned and showed Mr. Forepaugh a receipt for $450 in full of all claims and damages and Mr. Forepaugh was one of the happiest men in all Boston that night.

He said to the balance of us around him, "That man shall surely do all that kind of work for this show as long as I own it." He was expecting that it would cost him several hundred dollars in place of a few hundred.

A couple of days later shortly after people had got into the show an old gentleman came to the ticket wagon, and asked me where he could find Mr. Forepaugh. I told him he would find him at the main entrance and in a few minutes Mr. Forepaugh was listening to his story.

He said to Mr. Forepaugh, "I live next door to the man 'whom' your agent made a settlement with a couple of days ago for shooting him in the eye." The old gentleman said, "To commence with he has been blind in that eye for twenty years and I know of and as for the shot," he said, "that just hit him, hard enough to barely draw the blood, but he made all of it; he possibly could and I understand that he held you up for $450."

Mr. Forepaugh immediately began looking for his new claim agent and when he found him he told that as far as a claim agent was concerned he was crossed off the list, saying that, "if one of my men pay out $450 of my good money I want to know that it is for something." And this ended the career of the greatest claim agent for 48 hours that ever traveled with the Forepaugh show.

The season that the Forepaugh show would take in the eastern country we would always show Philadelphia, the winter quarters of the show for two weeks in the spring, then we would go to Baltimore for three days and Washington, D. C., for three days. In this particular season the boss canvassman in laying out his big top made a mistake and got three or four of his main stakes driven over the line onto another man's land, which he had no contract for. Along about 10 o'clock after everything was up and too late to make any change the owner of the land next, sued and attached the show for $10,000 damages.

Mr. Forepaugh came to the ticket wagon and told me to take his horse and carriage and go down town and hire a lawyer and bring him up to the grounds. I said to him, "Who shall I get?" He said, "Grab the first one you come to and bring him up here. I want to have a talk with him."

Now Adam Forepaugh was a democrat in politics and of the old war time, Kentucky style, which meant that he had but little use at that time for the colored people.

I had only driven a few blocks from the show grounds when I saw a sign that said "lawyer" on it. I pulled up to the sidewalk and was shown up into the office.

I found a colored man sitting there at a desk and I asked for the lawyer and he said "I am the man," and I could not back up so I asked him to go up to the show grounds with me in the carriage and see Mr. Forepaugh. In a few minutes I had him back to the show grounds and introduced him to Mr. Forepaugh.

He gave me a sharp look and then looked at the lawyer and all he could do was to state his case. This he did and the colored lawyer said, "Yes, Mr. Forepaugh, I know this man very well and I can go to him and make a very satisfactory settlement."

The old gentleman handed him half a dozen reserved seat tickets in case he wanted to use them in his settlement and in less than half an hour the colored lawyer returned and all he was out was four of the reserved seats which Mr. Forepaugh gave him and handed him a receipt in full.

Mr. Forepaugh congratulated him on his settlement, paid him more for his services than he asked him in cash and gave him tickets for himself and World's Temperance Sunday. Hosea vii.

Golden Text—Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning that they may follow strong drink, that tarry late into the night till wine inflame them! Isa. xlii.

(1.) Verses 1-2—Why cannot a nation nor an individual be mortally healed as long as wrongdoing is continued?

(2.) If a government is corrupt and the teachers of the nation false to their trust what will be the condition of the people?

(3.) Would men in authority act corruptly if they actually realized that God took notice of their every wicked way?

(4.) What effect does continued wrongdoing have upon the judgment of the sinner, upon his own acts?

(5.) Verse 3—How does the king, when the king, the president, the governor, the judge or others in high authority have been subtly blinded by "graft" or influenced by lust?

(6.) Verse 4—When wine and anger burn in a man until his whole life is "leavened" what is the influence of such a life and what will be the man's future?

(7.) Verse 5—What is the difference in the effect of "wine" upon the "king" and upon the plebeian?

(8.) What is the general effect of drinking wine at banquets and other similar functions?

(9.) At what stage in wine drinking does an ordinarily decent man join "his hand with the scorners"?

(10.) Verse 6—After an all night carousal how does a man feel in the morning?

(11.) When men "lie in wait" to do some devilish thing and drink while they wait what effect does the drink have upon them?

(12.) Verse 7—When men are "hot" with wine is it ever a burning desire to do good? Give your reasons. (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(13.) When we find men "hot" with rebellion against good judges and good government, to which class do they generally belong, total abstainers or drinkers? Why?

(14.) In these days how many good, God fearing men use wine as a beverage?

(15.) Verse 8—When professed Christians consort with the wicked, what will be the inevitable result, and why?

(16.) What kind of man is he who compares with "a cake not turned," that is burned on one side and half raw on the other?

(17.) Verses 9-10—What proportion of drinkers are so fuddled that they are unconscious of loss and cannot see danger?

(18.) When men or women are besotted with pride what hope is there for them?

(19.) Verses 11-13—What were the results, when God's ancient people relied upon other nations for help when God had promised them all the help they needed?

(20.) Verses 14-16—How is it that when men have brought great suffering upon themselves by sin they still insist upon rebelling against God?

family for the show. And after that he often spoke on the best of terms of the colored lawyer in Washington, D. C., who settled a $1,000 claim for him for four reserved seat tickets to the show.

These are simply incidents that were happening along the road and while everywhere the cost was considered practically a hold-up, yet a quick settlement of that kind by a big institution that had no time to waste in law suits, were always the best to make, and many a time in my experience in the business when they were considered hold-ups, the wind-up was such that would show us that a quick settlement was for the best.

We closed one of the most successful seasons of the Forepaugh show on the lake front in Chicago, for in those days we always showed under canvass and our tents were pitched between what is now the Fine Arts building and the great Montgomery Ward department store. Here we would, at times show two weeks to a tremendous business and at this particular engagement we had turned away afternoon and evening thousands of people who could not get in.

We closed there on Saturday and were going to South Bend, Ind., to show on a Monday. Late Saturday evening I was trying to get things in place in the ticket wagon as best I could and Mr. Forepaugh was sitting there looking on. I had three safes full of money and three of the old fashioned mark A. grain bags nearly full of silver dollars.

My orders from Mr. Forepaugh were to never pay over an eighth percent for New York exchange or big bills. I said to him "Governor when we get to South Bend, Monday, I am going to have some New York exchange or big bills for this silver here that is laying loose in the wagon and I don't care how much I have to pay for it. I must have it."

He said to me "Dave you have surely got one bad fault for circus business. You're always worrying over what you have got. Now," he said, "this loose money in the wagon here doesn't worry me at all. It's the money that I haven't got that worries me. Now you just change a little, quit worrying over what we have got and join me and we will worry together to get more."

But I got my New York exchange in South Bend just the same and Adam was satisfied.

Theater

FRECKLES.

Story plays—those which have been adapted from some popular novel—have been among the most interesting productions the stage has had. Among the most successful producers of book plays in America today, is A. G. Delamater; whose "Quo Vadis" and "Beverly of Graustark" are well remembered by hundreds of thousands of theatre-goers. Both were most interesting plays and clean ones—Delamater will have nothing to do with any other kind of production; above all the play must be clean and respectable, so theatre-goers within the confines of the United States and Canada will be pleased to know that he has arranged to produce Gene Stratton-Porter's delightful nature play "Freckles," which will be seen at the Myers theatre November 18.

When it is considered "Freckles" was a leader of all the best sellers—there have been over a million readers of the first story of this remarkable woman who has lived all her life in the Limberlost Swamp country of Indiana—it will be understood that to secure the playing rights was no small problem. It was Delamater's record for clean plays and his reputation in producing in the most complete and exhaustive manner, everything he undertook, that secured for him these rights over many competitors, among them the most prominent in America. So those who have read the story will have the opportunity of seeing the play; the characters which have been put in the mind's eye, can now be seen in the living, breathing sense; "Freckles," the nameless wail, with the nature friendships he forms in the great Limberlost Swamp; McLean—a nature's nobleman and Freckles' benefactor; "The Swamp Angel" in whom the wail's sweetest dreams are realized; the good Mr. and Mrs. Duncan; "The Bird Woman," and then Wessner, the timber thief, and Black Jack, the villain, are all vividly brought to life in Nell Twomey's dramatization of this most wonderful pastoral story. It will be a dramatic event—there are no two ways about it, when "Freckles" comes.

JACK BESSEY COMPANY.

The many friends of popular Jack Bessey have been wondering if he wasn't coming through this way this season and when they found out he was, there was a mad rush on the box office for tickets when they went on sale this morning. Mr. Bessey has a great bunch of shows this year—all new—and the kind that satisfy all. He has a new leading lady, Miss Nell Paul, who is an immense favorite in the south and one who will no doubt prove a great favorite with local theatre-goers before the week is over. She is beautiful and a most entertaining actress. The supporting company is the strongest Jack has ever had. His opening show, Sunday matinee, will be "The Suffragette," a four act comedy, and at night "The Man from Wyoming" will be presented. This is a western comedy positively free from all gun-play, written for laughing purposes only. Monday night the great political comedy drama, "Love and Politics," will be presented. Remember, regular prices will prevail on Sunday, and on Monday night ladies will be admitted free under the usual conditions.

Nell Paul, Jack Bessey's New Leading Lady, at the Myers Theatre. All Next Week.

TELEPHONE PHILANTHROPY

FOR fear the people of Janesville do not appreciate what the Bell Telephone Co. is doing for them, we give below its sworn report on its Janesville exchange, filed with the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin sin for the fiscal year of 1912:

Total cost of plant	-	$155,724.83
Operating expenses, depreciation, taxes, etc.	-	$32,761.96
Gross receipts	-	25,086.68
Net deficit--loss	-	$7,675.28

In 1910 their report showed a a net profit of $1485.87. In 1911 their report showed a profit of $69.87. To drop in one year from a profit of $69.87 to a loss of $7,675.28 tells its own story, especially as it claims to have greatly increased its number of subscribers during the year.

If it had a monopoly in Janesville do you think it would be satisfied to maintain a plant costing $155,624.83 at a loss of nearly $8000 per annum? Wouldn't it be more apt to increase its rates sufficiently to show a profit and eventually recuperate its losses. That is just what it did in Beloit after it acquired the Independent telephone plant there. In fact it is operating at a big loss here in hopes that it will eventually drive the Rock County Telephone Co. out of business and its solicitors constantly make the assertion that "there will be only one telephone exchange in Janesville in a short time and that ONE the Bell."

We have heard this talk for 13 years but we do not think any but the feeble minded believe it.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ON ENVY.

HERE are some people in the world who seem to feel positively insulted at other folks' good fortune.

A young girl who had had a rather hard fight to make her way, finally made a big success in her work, and on top of that met, fell in love with and married one of the wealthiest and most desirable young bachelors in the city.

They have just returned from an extended wedding trip abroad and are planning to build a beautiful home in the prettiest part of the town, so naturally everyone in the neighborhood is talking about her good fortune. Among the rest the mother of one of the unmarried girls in her set was discussing the lucky lady. "Well," she said, "Jane is pretty and stylish and makes a good appearance. They say it was nothing but a case of temper that separated her older sister and her husband. 'Desertion' was named as the grounds for divorce, but everyone says he deserted her because he simply couldn't stand her temper. Well," with a mournful sigh, "I HOPE they'll be happy."

Of course, you know her type, so of course you can imagine just how she contradicted the sense of her last statement by her mournful emphasis on "hope." She didn't want them to be happy, and she couldn't help showing it.

She was a victim of a virulent attack of one of the most common of human diseases—the green sickness of envy.

Pride, says the poet, is the last infirmity of noble minds. Undoubtedly, envy must be the next to last.

It may be because of my peculiarly ugly disposition, but the part of me that feels envy is just about the hardest citadel of the enemy for me to take. I may banish all outward show of it. I may go about proclaiming my rival's good fortune and praising him for her, but the instinctive surge of envy, the instinctive wish to find some flaw in the good fortune that I should have liked for myself, is still there. I could more easily make some tremendous sacrifice for my enemy or my rival than I could free myself of that feeling.

Have you never felt a shamed instant a subconscious feeling of pleasure when you heard that some piece of ill luck had come to that particular person who had always had all the successes and the good things that you wanted?

Have you never felt a moment of sick disappointment when you heard of some crowning success that would place your rival in some field far above you?

If you have not, you surely have my most hearty felicitations. But if you have, I know you will make it one of your character ambitions—as it is mine—to teach yourself to be genuinely pleased whenever you hear of anyone's good fortune and to forget what envy means.

The Tie That Binds Too Closely

I SHOULD think," said the Bachelor Girl, "that it would be an awful bore to have to do everything your husband did, or have him do everything you do."

"What do you mean?" asked the Young Married Woman, adjusting the chip on her shoulder.

"Oh, married people are always supposed to get up at the same time and go to bed at the same time and eat at the same time and go to church together."

"But you want to do it," said the Young Married Woman.

"Some people might. But just because I was supposed to would be the very reason I wouldn't want to."

"It does get tiresome sometimes," said the Elderly Matron. "But you just put up with it."

"But why?" asked the Bachelor Girl. "If I want to lie abed until nine, and he wants to get up at six or vice versa, why not each do as he wants to?" Or if he likes to sit up and read until midnight, and I like to retire at seven, why drag him off, or else sit around myself and yawn.

If he wants to go to church and I don't, why must I go, or he sit at home, or else people wonder what's wrong that I let him go to church by himself. If he likes light opera and I prefer grand opera, why must we each be alternately bored to death in order that we can always present the front to the world of appearing together? If I want to go off for a long tramp and he doesn't, why can't I go without his feeling injured at being left alone, or my feeling he has ceased to love me, because he doesn't want to go with me. Seems to me, it is in these matters that the tie that binds, binds most too closely."

"But you want to do these things together," reiterated the Young Married Woman.

"Oh, fudge!" said the Bachelor Girl. "I don't believe you do at all. I bet there are dozens of the trivial, everyday things of life it bores you to death to do John's way, and bores him to death to do yours. Of course, you do want to be together a lot, and you should have similar tastes in most things that count. But it seems to me a little more personal liberty would make the wedded state more blissful. You don't want to be tied so awfully tight that one can't move without the other."

"There's too much laxity nowadays," said the Grandmother. "That's the trouble with married folks at present."

"There isn't enough," replied the Bachelor Girl sagely. "That's the trouble. They are tied so close that each is straining to loosen the knot a little. But it is so tight, they only break it instead of easing it. Now if it were a little loose, so they would have some freedom to move about, they wouldn't be rubbing each other the wrong way in small matters, and so there wouldn't be that tugging and pulling that makes the cord snap."

"Much you know about it," said the Young Married Woman.

"Well, you have every facility for learning," smilingly replied the Bachelor Girl. "And if you'll keep an open mind, I have an idea you'll find there's a grain of truth in what I've been saying. The looker-on, you know, often sees things that the person in the thick of the fray doesn't notice."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Please Answer.

In pressing a blue broadcloth suit, it seems to be quite shiny. Can you please let me know how to remove it? Am a constant reader of the news and enjoy the 'Woman's Page' very much. L. B.

(Have you tried brushing against the nap, on the shiny side, with a nail brush, after dampening the cloth. Then press on wrong side, laying the goods face down on flannel—an old blanket is good.—Household Ed.)

Christmas Gift Idea.

A cork bag makes a very useful and inexpensive gift for Christmas. Take one-half yard of fancy Dresden ribbon for the bag and one-half yard of No. 2 ribbon for drawstring, with 5 cents' worth of different size corks. Mrs. B. C. Shaw.

For a Luncheon.

For a lunch for small club of eight or 10 people: Sunshine Salad. Nut Bread Sandwiches. Wafers.

Salted Almonds.

Coffee.

Sunshine Salad—One can pineapple, one pint celery, one-half pound marshmallows, one-half pint cream.

Cut pineapple and celery in inch lengths, marshmallows in about four pieces. Whip cream and add two tablespoons of mayonnaise dressing to it. Salt all to taste, toss together, serve on lettuce leaves.

Nut Loaf—Four cups flour, four level teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, one egg, 1-2 cups milk, one cup nuts. (Black and English walnuts preferred.)

Let rise 30 minutes; bake 30 minutes. Mrs. N. E. Marshall.

Cranberry Recipes.

Cranberry Sauce With Skins—Put quart of berries in granite kettle and put over them two full cups granulated sugar. On top of sugar pour one cup cold water. Cover and boil 10 minutes from the time berries begin to "pop" then uncover, cook 10 minutes longer and turn into dish to cool. Cooked in this way the skins will be tender, the berries whole and slip a thick jelly. A B.

Cranberry Sauce—Wash one quart cranberries, add 1-2 cups cold water and cook slowly until skins burst; strain through a colander and return to fire. When boiling again, add cup sugar and simmer slowly until thick, stirring frequently. The longer they cook after the sugar is added the richer will be their color. Pour out into molds and serve.

Candied Cranberries—Cranberries done in this fashion take the place of the more expensive cherries in cakes, confections or decorations. Take solid Cane Cod berries, use half as much sugar as berries and half as much water as sugar. Put berries in porcelain dish, pour sugar on top and pour water over that. Cook very slowly and, just as they are beginning to boil, cover for a few minutes, but not long, for they will burst. Then remove cover and cook slowly until tender, remove from pan very carefully, spread on oiled plates until dry. Mrs. W. P. Boesart.

Cranberries—Less sugar is needed if after washing the berries, a half teaspoonful of soda is added to the water in which they are to cook. Mrs. H. C. Kadow.

The Kitchen Cabinet

IS not enough to help the feeble up, but to support him after.

How poor are they that have no patience.

GELATINE DISHES.

Gelatin, though not a food in itself, is a great addition and ornament to food. It lends itself to so many beautiful combinations that it is invaluable in the cuisine.

Wash half a pound of prunes, add half a cup of water and cook until the prunes are soft. Remove the stones and place the prunes in wet molds. Put a heaping tablespoonful of granulated gelatin into a sauce pan, add a little cold water to soften, then a cup of boiling water. Add a cupful of fruit juice, the strained juice of two oranges and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a half cup of sugar, or less, depending on the sweetness of the fruit juice. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, after which it is strained over the prunes. Serve with whipped cream on top.

Coffee Jelly—To one cupful of strong coffee, add three teaspoonfuls of water and three tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatin and six tablespoonfuls of sugar. Bring the sugar and water to the boiling point, then stir in the gelatin, and when dissolved add the coffee. Pour into a wet ring mold, and when served fill the center with sweetened whipped cream. Decorate the edge of the plate with sweet wafers.

Grape Fruit Jelly—Take three cupfuls of grapefruit juice and pulp, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, half a cup of sugar, one and a half cupfuls of water, two heaping tablespoonfuls of gelatin. Dissolve the gelatin in the water, add the juices to the sugar and bring to the boiling point. Add the gelatin and strain into the halves of grape fruit skins. When firm serve with whipped cream on top.

AVOIDING INCOMPATIBILITY.

A reader of the Hints says he is convinced of the importance of the simplified diet, but wishes to know how to avoid incompatibility in diet. Obviously the first rule is to avoid mixing. Our knowledge of compatibility is as yet limited. No two foods are perfectly compatible, otherwise they would be alike; but the most similar are the most compatible. The cereals differ little and the acid fruits and sugar fruits, form classes. Milk is the infant food and differs most from flesh, not chemically, but in the manner of digestion. Pork requires five hours in the stomach, milk one, so that a glass of milk with pork, rice and tomatoes or watermelon would be a bad combination. Bread and butter and rice with cream would be a good combination; rice and cream with toast would be a good supper, because compatible, easily digested and sufficiently nutritious for the average person not doing heavy work, or for anyone if sufficient quantity be taken. Beans and bread form a good combination. Flesh meat is particularly harmonious with acid fruits. Those foods are most compatible, aside from chemical composition, which digest in about the same time and which belong in the same class, growing in the same way.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

YES—WOMEN ARE "EVERYBODY"

Before women can become good citizens, they must learn to respect the law.

The law isn't made for men only. It's made for everybody—and women belong to the class of "everybody," no matter how exclusive and exceptional the person of feminine persuasion may consider herself.

In Sydney, N. S. W., there is a law against the wearing of long hats. Sixty women—many of them prominent socially—ignored the law. The sixty were arrested for violating the hatpin law. Fines were imposed, which they refused to pay. They preferred jail. And now these sixty women threaten to starve themselves into liberty, imitating the British suffragettes, who seek martyrdom in imprisonment.

The Sydney women were all wrong. They deserve no sympathy at all. If they want to starve, let them starve. None of them will starve long enough to do a permanent injury—not anywhere near the injury that their long hatpins have probably caused others to endure. A little starvation will settle a lot of dyspepsia, take down considerable fat and possibly reduce arrogance to some extent—though it's harder to reduce arrogance than fat.

One feels a bit of pity for the jailed suffragettes in England. She is fighting for a great cause, even though she isn't fighting for it in the best way. She goes according to her light. Her enthusiasm blinds her. And she is lined up against such fearful odds of tradition and prejudice and pure injustice. And so we almost forgive her when she goes on a rampage and breaks windows, and when she gets the better of her prison-keepers, by simply refusing to eat, we sort of mentally pat her on the back.

But there is no just cause back of the Sydney women. They are defying a good law enacted for the protection of citizens. Feminine privilege does not immunize them. They need to be punished just as any man would be punished for breaking a law. And if they want to add starvation to the just punishment—well, it won't earn them any pity.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man deeply in love with a beautiful young widow ten years my senior. The only objection I have to her is that she eats onions and cabbage. She also talks very loud while in company and doesn't pay enough attention to me. She also objects to my wearing a mustache: is it fashionable or not? How can I reform her and is she too old for me?

In ten years more the widow will look old enough to be your mother and will probably be eating more onions and cabbage than ever. She certainly is not in love with you or she would pay more attention to you. I doubt if she can be cured of talking loud in company. Most men like to have smooth-shaven faces, considering that hair on the face is unsanitary.

Better get a girl near your own age, whose habits suit you better. It's as much of a mistake for a man to undertake to reform a woman as it is for a woman to try to reform a man.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a girl of 16 sexes. I like to know boys but I don't care for them to come to see me or take me out. My people scold me because I refuse dates and they say I am an old maid. This makes me feel bad, because I think I am doing right to stay home waiting until I am old enough to go with a real man and a man I can love.

Do you think I ought to run around with these fast boys, or should I do as my heart tells me, and wait. I am very smart and bright, but I know a girl of 17 hasn't half as much sense as a father who is 55 years old. Consequently I don't know whether to go ahead and marry as he wants me to, or stay away from these fast and frivolous boys so I won't get an opportunity to let myself to them.

Don't you think I am right in calling a young man down when he comes to see me and tries to hug and kiss me? He didn't seem to like what I told him.

I wish there were more girls as sensible as you are, my dear. If every girl kept herself sacred in body and soul, there would not be so many heartbreaking sorrows and disgraces.

Every girl should have good boy friends; she gets one-sided without them. But they should be real friends and not silly kids who are trying to be heartsmashers.

It seems to me that your people are rather odd. You are entirely too young to be called an old maid. In fact, there are no real old maids any more. If your people don't want to support you any more, study how to support yourself so that you will

This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes a pint of better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 2 1/2 pints of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has been found that this is a family long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite, and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, croup, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pinex on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiac and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR CAN BE STOPPED WITH HERPICIDE

Every woman who is obliged to wear false hair or man, a toupee, feels that it is a misfortune. What makes the burden doubly hard to bear is the knowledge that the loss of natural hair could, in most instances, have been easily avoided.

The arch enemy of good hair is the dandruff germ. This is now a well established scientific fact. There is one remedy on the market which, used regularly, will kill the germ and keep out every trace of dandruff.

This remedy is Newbro's Herpicide long known as the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer. By keeping the scalp clean, Herpicide not only prevents the hair from falling out but allows it to grow as nature intended. Begun in time and its use persisted in, this valuable remedy insures a nice healthy head of hair.

Herpicide imparts a life and luster to dull, dead, brittle hair making it light, fluffy and beautiful.

Don't wait. Begin now to save your hair.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Application may be procured at the better barber shops and hair dressers.

A nice sample and booklet on the care of the hair will be sent to anyone upon receipt of 10c in postage or silver. Address: The Herpicide Co., Dept. R, Detroit, Mich.

FACE DISGRACEFUL WITH RASH

Large Scabs Would Form, Fester and Break. Itching and Burning. Kept from Sleeping. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

St. Louis, S. D.—"My trouble of skin disease started merely as a rash on my face and neck, but it grew and kept getting worse until large scabs would form, fester and break. This was just on the one side of my face, but it soon scattered to the other side. I suffered a great deal especially at night on account of its itching and burning. I would scratch it and of course that irritated it very much. This rash was on my face for about two years sometimes breaking out into worse and forming larger scabs. It kept me from sleeping day or night for a couple of months. My face looked disgraceful, and I was almost ashamed to be seen by my friends.

"A friend asked me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I would bathe my face with hot water and a lot of Cuticura Soap, then I would put on the Cuticura Ointment. In less than two days' time, the soreness and inflammation had almost entirely disappeared and in four weeks time you could not see any of the rash. Now my face is without a spot of any kind. I also use them for my scalp and hair. They cured me completely." (Signed) Miss Fanny Hutchins, Feb. 6, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberate sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

NEXT SERIAL WILL INTEREST READERS

"His Rise to Power" is a Political Story of Vital Interest To All Readers.

Just at this time, with the strife between the great political parties fresh in the minds of all, the Gazette has arranged for the publication of a new serial by Henry Russell Miller, author of "The Man Higher Up," entitled "His Rise to Power." It tells the story of the struggle of a young politician to succeed by straight forward methods and how—but you must read the story to understand it all. It is clever and full of matters of vital interest to all. One can almost pick out the character delineated in one of the men now foremost in the minds of politicians and reformers. The first chapters will appear shortly.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

WHY WHO'S WHO.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

THIS is a free country. If you don't believe it, look at the number of people who are carrying concealed weapons and filling the streets cars with musk perfume. There is only one crowned head in this country, and that is the one worn by Hon. Charles F. Murphy, chief of Tammany hall and its outlying possessions. The outlying possessions consist of the legislature of Albany and a working interest in several members of congress. These gentlemen are wholly independent of Tammany at all times except during roll call.

Murphy is a retiring, reticent citizen who never uses the newspapers except to advertise the successes. Nobody ever sees Charles F. Murphy in print to defend the election returns. He does all of his contributing under the name of Pro Bono Publico or Nux Vomica. He does not engage in any joint debates, but sticks to the old-fashioned ideals of privacy and dignified silence.

Every two years the reform element of New York rises up with a virtuous air and a split ticket for the purpose of thwarting Charles F. He never had a real good thwart however, until he ran into the backbared oratory of William Jennings Bryan at the Baltimore convention. It seems that every time Mr. Bryan decided to enter after the presidency, Mr. Murphy would run the electoral vote of New York between his legs and trip him up. What Bryan said of Murphy at Baltimore would look better in one of the dead languages.

Every once in a while Mr. Murphy gets tired of being called a boss, and refuses to do anything but cast the vote of the New York delegation in one resounding plunk. One of the most entertaining pastimes in New York city is to fill Murphy full of poisoned arrows and biting repartees and then vote the straight ticket. Mr. Murphy has a face which is a close imitation of the full moon, and when sitting for a newspaper half tone looks like an escaped cherub. He takes only a cursory interest in politics, the most cursory being when Woodrow Wilson was nominated.

GIVES TEN THOUSAND FOR PUBLIC LIBRARY

H. E. Southwell of Chicago Announces Gift to City of Fort Atkinson—Dwight Foster Memorial.

H. E. Southwell of Chicago, announces a gift of $10,000 to the city of Fort Atkinson toward the building of a public library to be known as the Dwight Foster Library. The only condition he makes is that the library be a good one. The gift is not sufficient to build a public library large enough for the needs of the city and President A. M. Webb is advertising to raise an equal amount, if possible for the purpose. Dwight Foster was the first white man to establish a residence within the corporate limits of the city of Ft. Atkinson and lived there from 1836 until his death in 1870. The gift of Mr. Southwell has been accepted by the city council of Fort Atkinson.

BELIEVE SEWAGE PLANT CAN BE MADE TO PAY.

Mayor Helm of Madison Believes it Possible to Make Plant Pay Interest Upon Its Bond.

With a view of ascertaining how the liability incurred by the city in the operation of the sewage disposal plant, may be turned into assets, Mayor Helm of Madison, has been in correspondence with a number of sewage disposal engineering experts in Chicago, Milwaukee and Cleveland, and it is probable that several experts will be asked to visit the city and inspect the disposal works in the near future.

Mayor Helm has received communications from several engineering concerns stating that it is possible to operate the disposal plant so that it will bring proceeds into the city treasury sufficient to pay the interest on the sewage disposal plant bonds each year.

A letter to the Mayor from the Allen engineering Company, a Chicago concern, stated that the disposal plant could be operated to net the city an income of $3 per capita per year. The concern stated that the refuse could be converted into by-products such as grease, suitable for making soap, solid matter that after the extraction of the grease could be pressed and used for the generation of producer gas, and from the solid matter when burned, as suitable for use as a fertilizer.

All the products from the sewage disposal plant are marketable, and would change the liabilities incurred by the city in running the plant into profits which would go to pay the interest on the bonds. The company offered either to see what could be done with the present plant, or to provide funds for the construction of a new product disposal plant, which would be built and operated by the company until the city was ready to ask it from the hands of the company. The company would operate the plant on shares with the city.

SPOKANE PRODUCES REVENUE WITH MUNICIPAL CREMATORY.

Spokane, Wash.—For the first time, the city is beginning to obtain a revenue from refuse and garbage collected by the municipal crematory. Crematory Superintendent Arthur Peterson announced that he has entered into contracts providing for the sale at $4 a ton of all waste paper collected by the city to a contractor who resells to the inland paper mill, and with a local supply house which buys all the old rags collected by the city at 1 cent a pound. In addition, the superintendent has made arrangements to sell to farmers or others a fertilizer, a waste product of the crematory for from $5 to $10 a ton, according to the amount purchased. The question of installing a small smelter at a cost of $2,000 to segregate the tin, solder and sheet iron from tin cans collected has also been looked into by Mr. Peterson, but the amount of tin cans collected is not yet large enough to warrant the installation. "The salvage so far is small, but it helps in the operation of the crematory, and we hope to make it larger," said Mr. Peterson. "The old paper is sold for remaking into new paper; the old rags are cleaned and sterilized by the supply company and sold as cleaning rags for wiping machinery, etc. If the number of tin cans collected warranted it and the smelter were installed, the iron from the cans could be sold for window weights and other uses, and the tin and solder made into bars and sold for the regular price these metals bring."

ROCKFORD MAY APPOINT A MUNICIPAL FORESTER.

(Rockford Star.)

Co-operation of the city council with the park board is expected on the matter of a city forester and the outlook is favorable for incorporating in the next appropriation ordinance the compensation for this work and the appointment to be made by the mayor. A special committee of aldermen met Tuesday with the park commissioners to arrive at what is best. It is expected an ordinance will be framed for adoption by the council for the appointment of a city forester, as this work is under the jurisdiction of the city, although it will be supplemented by the park board. There has been considerable discussion on the need of a forester in order to preserve the trees of the city and to have them trimmed with some degree of uniformity.

The park board has practically completed its plans for the swimming pool that is proposed to be installed next season at Siniissippi park. The plans are said to contemplate something elaborate and will provide excellent bathing facilities during the heated season. The city council is also expected to co-operate in this matter.

MADE GIFT OF WATERWORKS TO CITY OF BENNINGTON.

Bennington, Vt.—The Bennington Water Works, of which Henry V. Putnam, of San Diego, Cal., formerly of New York and Bennington, is the principal owner, will be presented to the town on January 1. The water system was installed at a cost of $300,000, but has been improved until its present value is estimated at $500,000. Mr. Putnam says he will make the gift on condition that householders using the water shall pay half the present rate; that a sinking fund shall be established from the receipts to provide for maintenance; and that the remainder of the receipts shall be used to maintain a public hospital.

PURCHASE OF WATERWORKS WAS VOTED IN OSHKOSH.

The voters of Oshkosh decided to buy the water works and their expression on this subject was unequivocal, the vote being 4,332 in favor of taking over the plant and 1,127 against the investment.

Every ward in the city went on record as being in favor of acquiring the property. The Thirteenth led in the number of votes, cast on the proposition and also in the majority in favor of purchasing. In that balloting, 560 votes went on record in favor of municipal ownership while there were only 135 who voted to leave the public utility in the possession of the private corporation.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

SPECIAL ELECTION CALLED ON WATERWORKS ORDINANCE

A special election of the voters of Sheboygan is called for Nov. 26 to vote on the matter of the repeal of the existing amended waterworks ordinance. The city council at an adjourned meeting last evening voted unanimously not to repeal the ordinance under which the water works is administered and to submit the question of repeal to the people to decide. This is in conformity to a petition signed by a large number of voters demanding such repeal or referendum.

ORDER WIRES UNDERGROUND IN REDLANDS, CALIFORNIA.

Redlands, Cal.—The city trustees will order the removal of all electric light, telephone and traction line poles on the main streets in the business section of the city. The companies will be forced to place their wires underground. This movement was started several years ago and the poles were removed on State street. But the companies asked time in making the removals and it was given them.

NINETY THOUSAND TAX LEVY FOR FOND DU LAC SCHOOLS.

The annual budget of the board of education was made out at the October meeting of the Fond du Lac school board Thursday evening. The coming year the board will require a total of $90,710 for the conduct of the schools, but not all of this money will be secured through a tax levy. Aid to the schools other than that provided by tax levy will amount to $34,850, which, deducted from the general estimate, will leave $55,860 to be raised by city taxes. The budget for 1913 is approximately $2,050 higher than it was for 1912.—Commonwealth.

DONATES THREE THOUSAND TO MADISON FOR BRIDGE.

(State Journal.) Another gift of $3,000 has come to the Madison Park and Pleasure Drive association through D. K. Tenney.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Madison Park and Pleasure Drive association last night President E. N. Warner presented a check for $3,000 which he had received from Mr. Tenney as part payment for the Marston bridge which is being constructed in Tenney park. The bridge will cost some $3,500 and Mr. Tenney will pay the balance as soon as it becomes due.

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISNAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS" UNDER THE ROSE
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

Those nearest the wheel, not unwilling, perhaps, to desert, drew away; other detonations followed and smoke filled the place, obscuring the gaze. In the yellow fog they waited; until first it was swept aside close to the opposite wall by a draft of air from the aperture of the adjoining store-room, and the commandant, in an effort to see, moved impatiently, forward. Ere, however, he could reach the wheel, near the threshold of the store-room, he felt his arm suddenly seized.

"Look, listen!" The warning cry—a girl's voice—rang through the wheel-room; but the commandant did not at once heed it; at that abrupt touch he had involuntarily wrested his arm away; he stared, not in the direction she who had called out pointed, but at her! The white, drawn face, the eyes dilated—

"You, my Lady! Here?" he stammered. But she only made a wild movement; again grasped, drew him forward.

"Quick, or—" And suddenly he was brought to a realization of what she

The Blade of the Black Seigneur Shot In and Out.

wished him to see; a figure drawing itself along, slowly, painfully, toward the verge—

"Don't you see? Rather than be taken, he's going to throw himself over!"

The excited, admonishing sound of her voice aroused the commandant. He gave a sharp order and the soldiers sprang forward; laid roughly hold of the prostrate form; drew it back. The Black Seigneur yet struggled, but not for long! A moment, and his eyes turned to the Governor's daughter.

"Ma foi! I must needs yield—to your Ladyship! Yet, what matter, since I have done what I came to do!"

His gaze, darkly glowing, seemed to envelope the shrinking figure whose cloak only partly concealed the gay, rich gown beneath; lifted to the brilliant, frightened brown eyes. "Your Ladyship has bright eyes, forsooth!"

An ironical laugh burst from his lips. "But sharper than their swords!" He strove to speak further, when a hand holding a weapon fell heavily. At that a cry escaped the girl's lips.

"No, no; you shall not!" The Black Seigneur lay still.

"Gie! It's fortunate we got him," ruefully the commandant gazed around. "It would have made a pretty tale, if—" he turned to the Governor's daughter, "I have your Ladyship to thank—" he began, and stopped.

My lady's figure had at that moment relaxed and fallen to the ground!

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Hall of the Chevalliers. The report of the capture of the Black Seigneur spread from Mount to town; from rock to shore. Pilgrims repeated, peasants circulated it; many credited, a few disbelieved. Like shadows had his comrades and the escaped prisoners vanished, leaving no enabled us to capture him at the wheelhouse! How, by the way, came you there—in the wheelhouse?"

"I saw him from the abbey's bridge; heard him tell the watchman he had a message to deliver at your palace, and followed."

"Again feeling solicitude for me?"

"I did not know—he would dare much; and what does it matter now?" almost wildly. "You have captured him, shut him up somewhere in some terrible, deep dungeon, where—"

"He is safe? True; that is the main consideration."

Thereafter had the subject of the Black Seigneur been dropped between them; the pilgrimage over, the Mount resumed its normal aspect, but only for a little while! One day about a week later, a bright cortege whose appearance was in marked contrast to that of the beggarly multitude, late visitors to the rock, came riding down through the forest to the sea; at the verge of the sands, stopped for a first distant impression of the rock.

"Noble monument, I salute you!" Smiling, debonair, the Marquis de Beauvilliers removed his hat.

"And the noble mistress thereof?" suggested one of his train.

"She, of course!" he said, still surveying a scene different from that final memory he had carried away with him. Then had the rock reared itself in all the glamour of a sunny day; now was the sky overcast, while through a sullen mist the Mount loomed like a shadow itself.

"A cold place for our gay Elise!" One or two who viewed the sight for the first time looked disappointed; even the Marquis appeared for the instant more sober; but immediately regained his lively demeanor.

"Wait until you have seen it at its best," he retorted carelessly, and set the pace across the sands.

Midway, where once on the sands the men of Brittany had engaged in fierce conflict the ancient abbey's forces, were the new-comers met by an shown surprise; but whether she was pleased or not, his Excellency could not tell.

He was still uncertain; standing, near the raised gallery, in the ancient salle des chevaliers, from time to time regarded her furtively! Often had she looked from one of the round windows, commanding a view of the shore and the sands; many times turned away. At first sight of the company on the beach, the Governor had seen the girl's face alight and noted the involuntary start she had given. Whereupon, moving toward one of the giant fireplaces, had he sought for the sake of diplomacy and the end in view, to turn their conversation into a channel that should have interested her; spoke of plans to be made; preparations for festivities and merry-making commensurate with the circumstances. But to these suggestions of gaieties, the prelude to a stately ceremony, had she hardly listened; paused absently before the blazing logs; once or twice seemed about to say something and stopped.

She was silent now, a slender figure beneath that great canopy of stone designed for the shelter of a score of knights; nervously twining and intertwining her fingers, she looked out at the shadows moving between the columns, playing around the bases, or melting in the vaulting.

"They should be almost here now," observed his Excellency, again seeking to break that spell of constraint, when suddenly she stepped to him.

"Mon pere," her voice sounded strained, unnatural, "it was you who wanted this marriage?"

"Yes," he had answered in some surprise; "yes."

"And I have not opposed you—the King?"

"Opposed? No! Of course not!" "Then," more hurriedly, "must you do something in return for me? I do not want my—wedding festivities—marked by anything unpleasant! Promise that nothing will happen to him, the Black Seigneur, until after—"

"Impossible!" The sudden virulence her unexpected request awoke could not be concealed.

"Very well!" Before the anger in his gaze, her own eyes flashed like steel. "In that case, you can send the Marquis back! For I will not see him—today, tomorrow or any other time again!"

Long he looked at her; the white face; the tightly compressed lips; the eyes that would not flinch! They reminded him of another's—were of the same hue—so like, and yet so different! Unlike, in bespeaking a will he could not break! What he said, matters not; his face wore an ashy shade. She did not answer in words; but he felt, with strange bitterness, a revulsion; she seemed almost suddenly to have become hostile to him.

Imposing guard; escorted with due honor through the gates, and up the narrow street of the town.

As he climbed the winding highway, my lord, the Marquis, bestowed approving nod and smile this way and that; it may be that he already felt a nearer affiliation with these people; for his glance, gracious, condescending in passing, was that of a man armed with the knowledge that he, kinsman of the King, might some day be called upon to govern here. But to these advances, the townspeople responded ill, and the young noble's brow went delicately up, as if a little amused! Mon dieu! did not unfriendly eyes peer from every lurking place around the royal palaces and pleasure grounds near Paris; and had they not encountered them all the way to the sea? People were the same everywhere; must be treated like bad children, and, with relays of troops from the capital to the sea, from the strand to the Mount's high top, one could afford to smile at their petty humors. Above all, when one had more momentous matter for consideration! And my lord lifted his head higher, toward a rampart, where some one had once hid him au revoir, and where he might yet in fancy see a fluttering ribbon wave a bright adieu!

But today my lady, the Princess of the Rock, was not there; waited above, with her father, to receive him—then—in the great Hall of the Chevalliers. Until that morning she had not known of the coming of the Marquis, an impatient suitor, following the courier and the perfumed mist, a quivering her with the noble's near approach. Certainly had she

Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 13 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of dizziness and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief."

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 311 Exchange St., Rochester, N. Y.

Stoughton, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irregular. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years. I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B. NATURE'S WARNING

Janesville People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously. But nature generally warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy—If there are settlements and sediment. Passage frequent, scanty, painful. It's time to fear serious kidney trouble.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have done great work in Janesville.

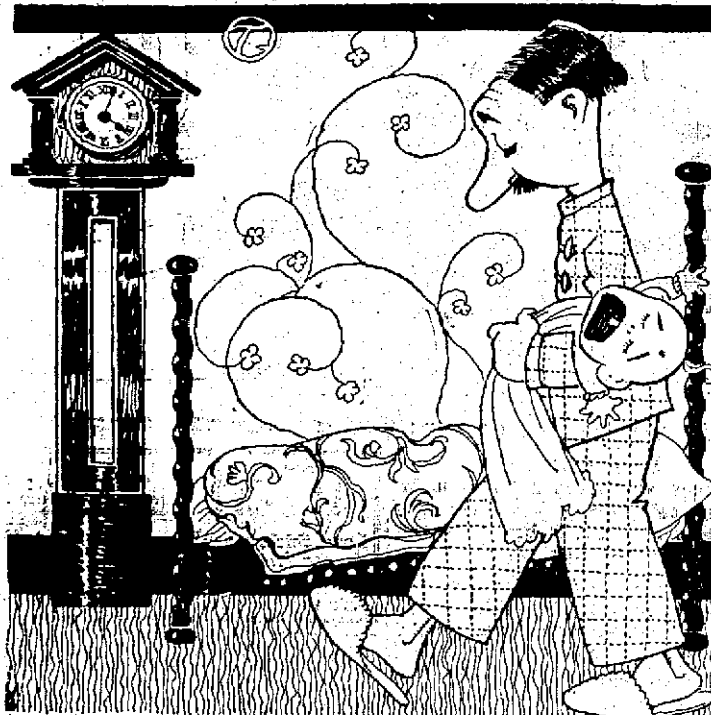

Benjamin Shalleross, 269 S. River St., Janesville, Wis., says: "Two years ago I had a great deal of trouble from inactive kidneys. The secretions from my kidneys contained sediment and were otherwise disordered. My back became so lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift and I became all run down. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, these symptoms of kidney complaint disappeared and I enjoyed much better health. I could not be induced to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills were I not certain of their merits."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janeville Daily Gazette, Nov. 9, 1872.—Accident: James A. Hovey, baggage master on the Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, was caught between the bumpers of two cars this afternoon, while making up the train, and badly injured. No bones are broken and unless there are internal injuries, no serious results are anticipated. At the present writing Mr. Hovey has not rallied from the shock sufficiently for his physician to determine his real condition.

The Epizootic at Sharon: On last Sunday a drove of ninety horses passed through the village of Sharon, on their way to the stables at Big Foot Prairie. Many were sick with the horse epidemic. Since then the disease has broken out among the horses in that village. On Thursday all but one of the horses at the livery stables were sick, and quite a number in private stables. Some of the cases reported are quite severe, but none yet fatal. New cases were reported yesterday morning, and there is fair prospect that a large number of horses will have a temporary rest from the work.

Brief Items: The Y. M. C. A. library will be open this evening for the return of books.

The Greeley flag was removed from Milwaukee street under the friendly cover of night.

Strakosch wants to bring Patti and the balance of his musical organization to Janeville.

Thirty or forty cases of epizootic are reported at Johnston among horses that have been worked on a railroad.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Be considerate and give no offense. Especially those in employ be careful. General good fortune is indicated, and by keeping on the alert you will see an unusual number of things which can be turned to your advantage.

Those born today will be fortunate in their undertakings and generally successful in public life. Their faults will be those of the haughty and proud.

NOVEMBER

IF TOMORROW IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.

Annoyance is indicated for you and perhaps some illness. In material things you will be fortunate, and some journey or change which you contemplate will result favorably.

Those born Sunday, Nov. 10, will be capable of great advancement, if under wise direction early in life. They will learn easily to fill positions of trust.
